BEARS BEAT PACKERS, 10-7

GAME RECAP (GREEN BAY PRESS-GAZETTE)

(CHICAGO) - The Green Bay Packers played the shoes off the Chicago Bears here Sunday and guess what they found inside those big leather gunboats: Rabbit's feet, the best good luck charms in the business of sports. With the largest pro football crowd in Chicago history - 46,231 - looking on, the stumbling Bears got into Packer territory only twice under their own power all afternoon in Wrigley field - once to score a field goal and another time to get tossed back 20 yards to midfield. Despite this amazing show of defensive power, the Packers walked off the field with a 10-7 setback, while the Bears reeled in the top spot of the Western division - strictly on a couple of wobbly rabbit's feet. The Packers were vicious and cold blooded Sunday, but a dreadful break - a fumble and touchdown run - took the joy out of great defensive performance that abolished the T-formation as a super offensive weapon. The Packers employed a defense, without guards literally, that stopped everything except for brief flurries in the third and fourth quarters when the Bruins waved their rabbit's feet. Offensively, the Packers didn't have a prayer which, incidentally, might have helped. Even a normal offense would have given the Green Bays victory, but it was lacking as they completed only four of 21 passes and could not gain on the ground when it counted. The Packers drove into Bear territory seven times, including smashes to the Bear 21, 22 and 23-yard lines, but didn't have the spark to carry over. Twice big Ted Fritsch missed field goals from the 45 and 34...The first half ended in a scoreless tie and the closest the Bears got was their own 45 as the Packers laughed these once mighty guys into the ground with murderous tackles. The crowd was stunned and so were the Bears. The Packers' mighty defensive job seemed to go for naught on the first play of the last half when Fritsch, running to his left, fumbled and end Ed Sprinkle picked up the loose ball and ran 30 yards for the game's first score. This was the first time Chicago got into Bay territory, and definitely not on any offensive effort of their own. Still shocked by this terrible turn of events, the Bays relaxed enough to let the Bears make their first earned entrance into scoring territory and it cost them three points - a 28-yard field goal by Frank Maznicki. The Bears soon got nosey again but the Packers slammed 'em back a neat 20 yards to the mid-stripe...With minutes ticking away in the last frame, tackle Tiny Croft pulled a Charley Brock, stealing the ball out of Dante Magnani's hand on the Bear 13. Fritsch needed just two drives to push it over with one minutes to go, redeeming himself for that fumble. That was the game, and it left the Bears staggering into their hole and the Packers cursing the terrible luck this day brought. Despite heavy rain Saturday night and early Sunday morning, the field was in fair shape and had little, if any, bearing on either team's efforts. And it was possibly the cleanest Bear-Packer game - on the whole at least - seen in many a year. Walt Schlinkman and Sprinkle were banished from action in the third quarter. Sprinkle wiped his hand across Walt's face and the rookie Packer failed to wait until the next play to get even. He went into Sprinkle right then and there, and that was the end for both. Walt later was told by an official that he was not at fault...This Sabbath had a lot of Packer defensive standouts, and few can be singled out, although the work of halfback Bob Forte was exceptional as he played the entire game in his position on defense and crashed Bear runners continuously. Urban Odson was the ringleader in the line that clubbed Bears without mercy. Then there was Nolan (Skinny) Luhn and Don Wells who were getting in plenty of licks. Offensively, young Cliff Aberson played like a veteran throwing some passes that should have been caught and others that were a mile high and gaining considerable on the ground. Despite the fumble which took some of the brilliance from his showing, Fritsch ran the Bears ragged and it took two and three men to bring him down. He had a couple of runbacks of kickoffs late in the game that went for 35 and 40 yards, most of which was accomplished by sheer power. Roy McKay continued to punt brilliantly averaging nearly 45 yards. Late in the game, he punted 73 yards. The Packers tried a passing attack but Don Hutson, the man who scored over 800 points, was in the wrong uniform. The Bears completed four themselves but threw only 11...This was the first time since the last Bear game Sept. 29 that the Packers lost the toss and so Mr. Fritsch kicked off into the end zone from where Gallarneau ran to the 21 where he ran into Forte. The aforementioned Mr. Forte then threw Luckman for five yards, and the Bears tried a quick kick, a lousy one that went out of bounds on the Bear 35, putting the Green Bays in enemy territory. The Bays opened up with a passing attack, Comp throwing to Goodnight in the same spot twice but both heaves were high and Rohrig missed on a third. Fritsch then stepped back on the 45 for a field goal and it was low. The Packers continued to play driving, slashing football and held the Bears to a minus three yards in the next three plays, forcing Muha to punt to the Packer 43. Green Bay couldn't make anything earlier so McKay punted beautifully to the six where Gallarneau ran to the 16. The Bears made the first first down of the game to the 29 but were then forced to punt again, Muha booting to the Bay 39. Now it was Green Bay's turn to toll and it did to some extent. Canadeo and Fritsch picked up nine and then Teddy slammed through left guard for 16 yards and a first down on the Bear 36...With a bewildered crowd howling them on, the Packers moved to the Bear 21 on a 15-yard pass from Forte to Canadeo but a 15-yard penalty set the Packers back too far and McKay punted into the end zone. The Bears quickly made a first down but as the first quarter ended Muha punted to Nussbaumer who fumbled and recovered with a Bear close by on the 30. Schlinkman and Aberson were stopped and McKay punted to the Bear 38 where Luckman pegged to Sprinkle for 13 yards. The crowd which seemed to be backing the Packers went nuts as Aberson scooped out Luckman's pass on the 30 and ran to the Bear 49. The Packers started to rumble as Aberson hit guard for four and Schlinkman made 17 in two tries for a first down on the Bear 28. Then Comp missed on a pass, Fritsch made five, and Comp was held for no gain as he slipped taking off. This brought Fritsch's toe into action again and he barely missed the field goal attempt from the 34...The Bay defense really came into its own a moment later as the line plus Smith and Forte slammed the Bears back 14 yards, making Muha punt from his end zone. A holding penalty jammed up the Packers and McKay punted to the 16. Near the end of the second quarter the Bears stated to pass and made two first downs before the Packers took over and made a firster themselves before the gun sounded. The first big break of the game occurred five seconds after the Bears kicked off to start in the second half. The Bays were on their 36 and Fritsch started around left end, fumbling as a flock of Bears put the cement to him. Sprinkle was there just like Detroit's Dave Ryan was a week ago at Milwaukee. Sprinkle picked up the bouncing ball and went 30 yards for the TD. Maznicki made the extra point. The Packers then started their best drive of the day going from the 42 to the Bear 22 where the attack bogged. Fritsch started it by taking the kickoff from the 10 to the Bay 42. Aberson started passing and completed one to Luhn for nine and another to Goodnight for 16. This is where the heat set in and two young men were booted out for fighting - Schlinkman and Sprinkle. On fourth down Aberson tried a pass that just slipped out of Rohrig's hands on the five. An exchange of punts followed and the Bears started their field goal drive from the Packer 41 - incidentally the first time the Bears got into Packer territory on their own power. Mullins opened with 14 through left guard and then the Packers held on the 22 from where Maznicki dropped back on the 28 and kicked his field goal putting the Bears ahead, 10-0...Fritsch again went into action as he took the kickoff on the seven and rammmed to the 42. A Bear holding penalty helped the Packers but again McKay had to punt, kicking to the three where Mullins ran to the 10. The Bears made a couple of quick first downs as the third quarter ended and early in the fourth frame the Bears reached their 45 where Forte recovered Schweidler's fumble on the Packer 48. The tide turned a moment later when Lamb recovered McKay's fumble on their own 45. The Bears started to toll until Forte nailed Magnani for an eight yard loss and Luckman was smeared for 10 trying to pass. The Packers, starting on their 20, couldn't do a thing as Comp lost five trying to pass. McKay then punted 72 yards to the Bear 13, for the best kick of the day. The Packers made their own break as Croft stole the ball from Magnani on the Bear 13 with slightly over a minute to go. Two quick passes failed and then Fritsch snapped over left guard for 10 to the the three with one minute left. On the next play, Teddy hit left tackle for the touchdown and kicked the extra point to make the count, 10-7. McKay almost kicked the ball into the stands on the ensuing kickoff in a successful attempt to stop the clock. The Packers tackled desperately with the final seconds ticking off but to no avail as the gun ended the game.

Bears Lucky: Johnsos

BEARS LUCKY: JOHNSOS

NOV 4 (Chicago) - "The Bears were lucky to win." Believe it or otherwise, the speaker was Luke Johnsos, assistant coach of the horseshoe-laden Chicago Bears, who had just been ushered to victory on the Wrigley field turf by that capricious miss, Lady Luck. And - prepare yourselves for a shock - the balding aide-de-camp to George Halas, owner-president of the doughty Bruins, meant what he said, thereby setting some sort of precedent for the Stew and Sweat fraternity. For, as is commonly known, it's bound to be a frigid day in Hades when the coach of a winning club will come out with the kind of statement which we can credit to Johnsos, one-time running mate of the Windy city eleven's immortal Bill (Offside) Hewitt. The big fellow, who operated at end for Halas for nine seasons before joining the Bear coaching staff to tutor the flankers, was still a little breathless when we bumped into him in the Pink Poodle, Wrigley field's swanky "fifth quarter" lounge, and needles to say, it wasn't from climbing stairs. "We were the luckiest club in the league today," he said in a tone packed with respect for the way the Packers battled the highly favored (by the oddsmakers) Western division leaders right down the line for the full 60 minutes, adding, "I guess there's no doubt about that." "For a minute there, I thought we were going to see a repeat of that 17-14 game down here in 1935," he recalled with the trace of a shudder. (For the benefit of those who don't remember that one, the Packers came from behind to win in the last three minutes on a pair of those

The Packers made several mild scoring threats in the first half against the Bears at Wrigley field Sunday afternoon, but each of them fizzled out. Here is the second of Ted Fritsch's two field goal attempts. Standing on the 33 yard line, Fritsch has just booted the ball. Herman Rohrig held it for him. No. 30 charging patented Herber to Hutson aerial classics. "And that Fritsch," he marveled, mentioning the boy who was the big gun in the Packers' late drive, "what a man he is. He ran around us and over us and through the whole team, it seemed to me. He's sure one hell of a fullback." We left Johnsos shaking his head thoughtfully over a glass of brew to go in quest of Halas, catching the Bruin pilot just outside the Bear dressing room under the stands. His first words were "What an improved ball club!" And, like Johnsos, the soft-spoken leader of the fabulous Chicagoans weren't kidding. Halas, who acts and talks more like one of the cloth or a college professor than like the famous gridiron figure he is, was obviously much impressed with the almost unbelievable difference between the Packers of this windy Sunday afternoon and those of that sad day in Green Bay six weeks ago. George, who was busy accepting the usual round of congratulations from the Chicago sports scribes, also managed to find time to say a few kind words about Fritsch, who has been handed the palm by every coach who has seen him work this season. And the amiable Bear mentor had that "I sure wish I had him" look in his eye, make no mistake. When last seen, the No. 1 Bear was still ironing the creases out of the brow furrowed by the latest in the long succession of Packer-Bear classics. Although naturally disappointed in the outcome, Coach E.L. (Curly) Lambeau and his two aides, Don Hutson and Walt Kiesling, were pleased on the whole with the play of the Packers in the defeat. Lambeau did feel, though, that not all of his men were "giving everything they had on every play. The majority of them played great ball but there was a minority that didn't - and that minority caused us to lose the ball game." "At times we had ten out of 11 playing ball, sometimes nine and other times only seven out of 11. As everybody knows, you've got to have 11 out of 11 on their toes all the time to win a ball game, especially against the Bears," he pointed out, adding, "I only feel sorry for those fellows who did put out all the way, because they deserved to win." The big Packer mentor, who saw his new defense hold the Bears to their second lowest yards rushing total of the season - 123 - had words of praise for two of the boys who played substantial roles in the accomplishment. They were Urban Odson, the husky 247-pound freshman tackle who was an All-American at the University of Minnesota, along with teammates Bruce Smith and Dick Wildung, and Nolan Luhn, the ex-Tulsa wingman. A factor he felt made considerable difference involved the other half of the Tulsa Twins, Clyde Goodnight. The injury he had been nursing all week slowed the Packer swiftly down enough to prevent him, on several occasions, from snagging passes that easily could have made the scoreboard play a different tune. One of the most disappointing came when the mercury-footing end, who can do the hundred is 9.8 - and that's really carrying the mail in any league - slipped behind the entire Bear secondary in the fourth quarter but couldn't quite get to Irv Comp's long heave. Just so slim is the margin between first and third place...Just before the kickoff, the Bears and Packers and the 46,231 fans paid tribute to the memory of the Bears' Young Bussey, understudy of Sid Luckman at quarterback of the great '41 team, who lost his life at Lingayen Gulf in the Philippines in March, 1945. Taps were blown by two buglers from the Great Lakes Naval training station in the simple but impressive ceremony, one sounding the final tribute at the 50-yard line and the other following with the echo from near the field wall...Except for a few instances, the play was clean throughout, although Johnny Schiel, the Bear who slugged Carl Mulleneaux in the first game at Green Bay, was seen to use his elbows to good advantage on several occasions. To the Packers' credit, the big Bruin center came out without a mark on him anywhere...Clyde (Bulldog) Turner, the Bears' rough and tough center, suffered a broken nose when he made the mistake of running into a Packer-filled helmet while going at full tilt. He was the game's only casualty...Fritsch came in for a tremendous ovation when he returned the final Bear kickoff following Maznicki's field goal, Ted literally blasting his way to midfield, bowling over four Bruins en route. He nearly got away, too, the only one of the foe remaining between him and the goal line making the tackle. George Wilson, right end on the Halas eleven, also may have a little trouble in standing upright in a few days. He made the fatal error of trying to stop Terrible Ted with his stomach when the Bay bruiser scored his touchdown...The fans also oohed and aahed when Roy McKay, the Texan with the talented toe, booted the final kickoff over the goal posts and into the stands. Oh, if they'd only been playing high school rules...There's one of them at every game. We refer, of course, to that mellow fellow who's always making himself obnoxious. This time it was a "full-spirited" gentleman who planted himself on the Packer bench midway in the third quarter. He was hustled away shortly but not, of course, without the customary resistance...Two grade school teams, sponsored by the Chicago Park district and the Chicago Sports association, of which Cardinal owner Charles Bidwell, is president, did their stuff in a between halves contest. When a lad wearing number 14 came onto the field, the announcer cracked, "There goes Hutson," recalling the numeral that graced the back of the Packer immortal during 11 seasons in the NFL and has now been retired by Coach Lambeau out of respect to the great end...When the teams came on the field before the kickoff, the Board of Trade band obligingly swung into "On, Wisconsin" for the Packer but their rendition, we must admit, lacked the space and pep of the "Packers Down The Field", as played by Director Wilner Burke and his Packer Lumberjack band at the North Western station when the players left for Chicago Saturday afternoon...Packers fans who listened to Russ Winnie's account of the game over station WTMJ must have amused no little when Russ recounted that "Comp's pass to Goodland was incomplete." How does it feel to be governor, Clyde?

PRO FOOTBALL WARS SPREAD ACROSS NATION ON 4 FRONTS

NOV 5 (Chicago Tribune) - New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco are the hot spots Sunday in the professional football whirligig. At New York: The Philadelphia Eagles and the New York Giants will battle for the eastern division lead in the NFL. At Chicago: The high scoring Cardinals will try to remain in the western division race and at the same time eliminate their opponents, the Green Bay Packers. At Los Angeles: The Bears will protect their slim western division edge against the Rams, defending champions. At San Herman Rohrig (left), Green Bay Packers' halfback falls headlong across goal line as ball bounces away on an incomplete pass in the third period against the Bears at Chicago.

Francisco: The Cleveland Browns will try to stop their two game skid. If they don't, their opponents, the 49ers, will climb into a tie with them for the western section leadership of the All-America conference. Only in the eastern division of the All-America is pennant pressure lacking. The Yankees have won 6, lost 2 and tied 1. Brooklyn's Dodgers, in second place, have won 3, lost 4, and tied 1. The Chicago Rockets, having closed out their seven game home stand in Soldier's field, now start seeing America. They will play the Seahawks next Monday night in Miami. Then will follow trips to Cleveland, New York, Los Angeles and San Francisco. The Los Angeles Rams were in Chicago briefly yesterday, coming here from Detroit, to catch an afternoon plane for the coast. The Bears will leave tomorrow on the Chief for the coast, arriving there Friday in time to work out. Thus they will lose only one day's drill, Thursday. The Bears kept Ray (Scooter) McLean on the sidelines Sunday in the Packer game to make sure the little fellow will be completely sound for the Rams. Likewise Los Angeles put the shackles on Kenny Washington against the Lions. The great Negro has been shifted to fullback and will be ready to do a job against the Bears. By winning the Rams will go into a tie with the Bears. Each would have 4 victories, 2 defeats and a tie. The Cardinals arrived in town yesterday from Boston quite proud of being the highest scoring team in the league with 180 points in seven games. They will be at full strength against the Packers in Comiskey park with the return of tackle Stan Mauldin, guard Ray Apolskis, and halfback Jimmy Johnston. Coach Jim Conzelman will have them hard at work this a.m. Anything can happen in the NFL's eastern free-for-all. The twice beaten Eagles whipped the Giants in Shibe park Sunday, 24 to 14. They will try to do it Sunday in the Polo Grounds, which would break their first place tie. In the background are Washington and Pittsburgh, with only two defeats but each saddled with a tie. There easily could be a playoff in this sector.

All-Time Packer Football Team To Be Selected by Fans in Poll

ALL-TIME PACKER FOOTBALL TEAM TO BE SELECTED BY FANS IN POLL

NOV 5 (Green Bay) - Here's your chance to select an all-time Green Bay Packer team and then meet it. It goes like this: The Press-Gazette, through the Green Bay Packers, Inc., will conduct a poll - starting as of now - to select an all-time Packer

Center—Charlie Brock.
Right Guard—Buckets Goldenberg.
Right Tackle—Cal Hubbard.
Right End—Lavvie Dilweg.
Quarterback — Red Dunn or Larry Craig.
Right Halfback—Johnny Blood.
 or Cecil Isbell.
Fullback—Clarke Hinkle.

football squad. The team, as chosen by you and you and you, will be presented between halves of the Packer-Cardinal game at City stadium Sunday, Nov. 24. Every member of the squad will be brought to Green Bay for the introduction and ceremony between halves. Expenses of the 11 men to Green Bay will paid for by the Packer organization. Here's how you go about it: Write, or type, your own all-time Packer squad on a piece of paper; sign your name; and then mail it to the Sports Editor, Press-Gazette, Green Bay, Wis...Each of the 11 players on your team will be awarded one point. The final team will be made up of players with the most votes. The Sports Ed will compile the selections on a master sheet - by position - and the players with the most vote will be announced as THE all-time Packer team to be introduced here Nov. 24. The "polls" open, appropriately enough, today - Election Day. They'll close at midnight Saturday, Nov. 16, and will be announced in the Press-Gazette of Monday, Nov. 18. This will give the Packer corporation enough time to contact the final selectees and have them here in time for the game. Here is a warning: All team selections must be signed by the person sending them in. If not signed, they will be deposited in the nearest waste basket...Every other night, the Press-Gazette will publish progress of the voting, giving the players by position and the number of votes each received. No consideration will be given "teams" that list two players as just tackles, or guards, etc. The team must be complete with names for the specific positions such as left end, left tackle, left guard, right guard, etc. In case your memory is a bit rusty we are printing the all-time Packer team as chosen by E.L. (Curly) Lambeau, who organized the Packers back in 1921 and coached every team since. The team definitely is not published for the purpose of swinging your votes but for the purpose of furnishing you with a refresher. Names of a large number of Packer players will be published later this week to assist you in recalling the old Packer teams...In making his selections, Lambeau feels that it is "impossible to name a team without slighting some of the boys." As an example, he pointed to Ted Fritsch, who is rated as the best in the National league. However, he added that Fritsch still has a number of years to play. You will notice that two players are chosen for the quarterback and left half spots. Lambeau explained that under the old quick-opening style (similar to the T) the passer played in the quarterback spot, this being the reason he decided on Dunn. Under the present system, the quarterback is strictly a blocker (Craig) and the left half does most of the passing (Isbell). Tops in either system in the backfield are fullback Hinkle and right half Blood. Now that your memory has been refreshed, kindly take up paper and pencil, write out your team and mail it to Sports Editor, Press-Gazette.

NFL REAFFIRMS RULE AGAINST POST-SEASON GAMES AT MEETING

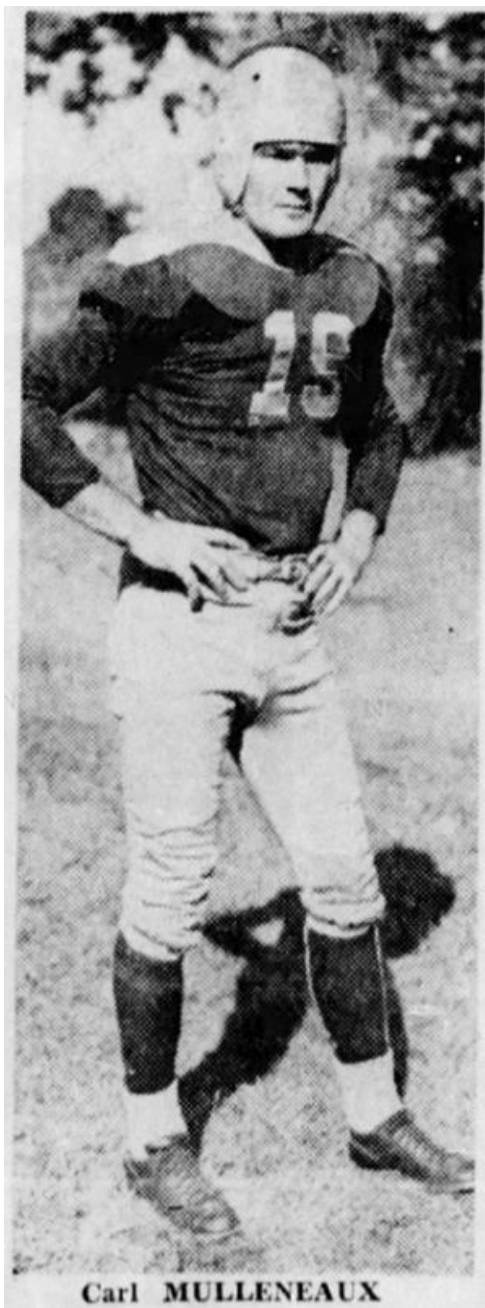

NOV 5 (Pittsburgh) - Possibility of a "world series" of professional football appeared dead today after National league representatives, in annual mid-season meeting, reaffirmed their rule against postseason games. In other action Monday, owners unanimously passed a resolution that no college player shall be signed until his name has been passed through the 1947 draft. All-America conference spokesmen have suggested a postseason professional football championship game between the two league champions, but Monday's action made such a game impossible. The meeting was attended by Coach Curly Lambeau of the Green Bay Packers, who left Chicago after the Bear-Packer game Sunday night. Bert Bell, league commissioner, presided.

MULLENEAUX QUILTS FOOTBALL WITH NO REGRETS; TALKS WITH SCHIECHL

NOV 5 (Green Bay) - Carl Mulleneaux, the big Irish-French-English kid who played six years of Green Bay Packer football, is leaving his most-loved game without regrets. The former Utah State college star, who served 43 months in Uncle Sam's Navy, was knocked out of football by an almost unbelievable set of injuries this fall, the starting point of which was a brutal sock on the jaw by Bear center John Schiechl in the Packer-Bear tussle here Sept. 20. Carl came out with a brain concussion that effected his sight. Mulleneaux rested two weeks and then got into uniform again. In his first scrimmage, he broke his nose and sustained numerous cuts about the face. Several days later he was back, wearing a face guard. Then, the morning of the Detroit-Packer game in Milwaukee Oct. 28 Carl could hardly get out of bed. His back was hurt. It was an injury he had developed earlier in his career. Last week, Coach Lambeau, after a conference with Dr. H.S. Atkinson, team physician, called Carl into his office and asked him to quit the game. Naturally, Carl was reluctant but Curly put him on waivers, thereby making it possible for any other team to give him a chance to play. The big end never was picked up and today he is happy about it. The back injury could really be serious if he ever played again. He has three loose vertebrae, contraction of which would paralyze him from the hips down. But the story isn't ended yet. Carl made a trip to Chicago last Sunday to have a chat with Schiechl, the Bear center who was called by the Packers Sunday night as "worse than Artoe (ex-Bear tackle) ever thought of being." Carl was on the sidelines in civilian clothes, and during a timeout, yelled several "remarks" to Schiechl, who replied back: "Don't you say those things (about the Sept. 29 game); I want to see you after the game." And so did Carl. The former Packer was at the Bear dressing room door when Scheichl came out. No, there was no blows of any kind. Schiechl almost bawled trying to convince Carl that the blow that put Carl out of football was not intentional. The two guys were buddies out in California and later played together at Great Lakes. Mulleneaux couldn't imagine the blow was intentional, although he knew Schiechel was big, rough and liked to use his elbows. "There was nothing I could do but to accept his apology," Carl said. Mr. and Mrs. Mulleneaux and daughter Jan Carol, 1 year old, now have a dinner date with the Schiechls in San Francisco on Jan. 1. Carl will be in Green Bay for another week taking treatment for his back after which he will return to his home near Frisco to go into the construction business with his brother, Brute, also a former Packer...Walt Schlinkman, Packer fullback, may not have to pay the automatic fine that goes with being tossed out of any National league game. (Walt and Ed Sprinkle got the thumb in Chicago Sunday). Sprinkle wiped his hands across Schlink's face when the Bear end tackled him and the official was about to call a 15-yard penalty on the Bears for illegal use of the hands when Schlink, young and willing, got up swinging. The official tossed 'em both out, but after the game the officials told Walt that "it wasn't your fault and I'll wire Commissioner Bell to have it rescinded." The moral: If you're abused in one play, wait until the next to get even...George C. Calhoun, Packer publicity chief, saw an opening kickoff for the first time in 20 years at the Bear-Packer classic Sunday in Chicago. "Why it was easy; the game was sold out way before the game started, and there just wasn't anything to do at the gate anymore. I just walked in," George said.

POINTS, POINTS, POINTS; WHERE ARE THEY? SAFETIES, FIELD GOALS, EVEN TD'S WELCOME

NOV 5 (Green Bay) - The point of today's verse is points. It concerns the Green Bay Packers' ability to keep other teams from scoring points and also their lack of ability to score same for themselves. The NFL standings show the Bays as (1) the best defensive club in the Western division and the second best in the league; and (2) the worst offensive squad in the Western section and second worse in the whole loop. The Green Bays have allowed six opponents 82 points thus far. (Lowest is Pittsburgh with 76.) Fifty-one of those 82 markers were chalked up by the Bears and Los Angeles Rams in the season's first two games when the Packers were breaking in Coach Curly Lambeau's new defense, designed chiefly to upset T pots. The defense clicked marvelously in the next four tests as the Bays gave up four touchdowns, one in each of those games with Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Detroit and the Bears. And the last two TD's (Detroit and Bears) were purely unearned as each resulted from a fumble and direct run over. Since the Ram game in Milwaukee (21-17), only the Eagles and Steelers were able to start a drive with enough force to score a touchdown, the counters being Steve Van Buren of the Eagles and Pitt's Bill Dudley...Offensively, the Packers couldn't be much worse with 77 points. Only Boston has less - 59 - and the Bays do not have the opportunity of meeting the Yanks this season. Only the Bears (twice) and lowly Detroit have held the Packers to one touchdown in each of the three games. Against the Rams, Eagles and Steelers, Green Bay made two TD's in each test plus assorted Ted Fritsch field goals and a safety by tackle Urban Odson. The discussion now brings us up to date; that is, up to next Sunday when the Packers invade Chicago again - this time to play the Cardinals...Right away it starts to get interesting because the Cardinals happen to be the league's highest scoring outfit with 180 points in seven games. That's an average of 25.7 points a game, as compared to the Packers' 12.8. Defensively, the firm of Goldberg and Christman allowed 128 points or 18.2 per test. The Packers have a defensive mark of 13.6 for six tiffs, but only 7.7 for the last four games. In short, it's a case of the best defense meeting up with the best offense. The oldtimers claim the defense generally catches up with the offense and the ancient observers may be right, what with the Packers smothering the Bears' T-formation last Sunday; the Notre Dame of Detroit Oct. 27; the single wing of Pitt Oct. 20; and the T-formation of Philly Oct. 13...The Packers came out of Sunday's Bear tilt with no serious injuries, although there were the usual cuts and bruises. Guard Bob Adkins, who fractured his leg in the New York Giants exhibition Sept. 10, started working out with the squad today and Lambeau expects to have him suited up for next Sunday. The Bays used this morning's drill for loosening up purposes, and played some touch football. Monday was a day of rest, the usual case after a Bear game.

PACKERS BACK IN GOOD GRACES DESPITE DEFEAT

NOV 6 (Milwaukee Sentinel-Lloyd Larson) - Green Bay's Packers proved again last Sunday that victory, while highly desirable, isn't absolutely essential in winning new football friends and influencing old ones. Sure, they lost the ball game to their rugged old rivals, the Bears, but they put out, as they say in the trade - gave it the old college try right down to the very end. In short, they performed as fans have a right to expect mature, skilled postgraduates to perform. As a result, many of the same patrons who yawned and practically held their noses as the Packers beat Detroit at State Fair Park the week before, stayed to cheer the Lambeaumen in defeat this time. All through this unusual season, in fact, there has been every indication that the fans, while fickle at times, are more sensible and reasonable than they are generally given credit for being. They squawked and had a right to squawk when the Bays looked like a combination of wooden soldiers and junior boys in the first Bear game. The team's failure to play up to the hilt - not defeat - caused the holler guys to swing into action. A rousing comeback the following week against the Rams revived the cheering habit in a hurry despite another setback. The cheers died down a bit in the Pittsburgh victory and disappeared completely in the Detroit game. The conclusion, of course, is that folks in the stands are pretty keen judges. They're perfectly willing, even anxious, to wave the flag for a team doing its dead level best. But a sloppy exhibition? They just won't stand still for it, regardless of the outcome...CLIFF ABERSON GETS CHANCE AND CLICKS: From a Packer standpoint, there were a number of eye-catching features in the unusual defensive battle. Anytime the Bears fail to score a touchdown on their own power and the Lambeaumen are unable to do so before the last minute or two, the game must be termed unusual. Cliff Aberson's fine showing in his first opportunity to perform at length...Bob Forte's outstanding defensive play...the old fire from the line as a whole...Bruce Smith's topnotch work on defense...Roy McKay's great punting...Walter Schlinkman's continued improvement as a replacement for Ted Fritsch. And it was a pleasure to see a Packer-Bear game in which football predominated - not the kicking, piling, elbowing and general back alley brawling which have marred renewals of the old series in the past. Oh, the boys "laid the wood" on each other all right. Which they should, for it's part of this great contact sport. But they didn't stoop to methods they shouldn't even think of adopting. This Aberson boy, potentially a terrific passer and a runner gifted with plenty of desire, earned the right to stay in there. He can't acquire the necessary experience and polish sitting on the bench, or by getting into the game for a minute or two. For one who never played college ball, he has come a long way. The Green Bays better give 'er the gun again Sunday when they tangle with the Chicago Cardinals at Comiskey Park. Those Cards really are on the move.

CARDS, PACKERS IN 46TH BATTLE; CHICAGOANS WON LAST TILT IN '37

NOV 6 (Green Bay) - The Green Bay Packers haven't lost a game to Chicago's Cardinals since 1937. In the series, second oldest in professional football next to the Packer-Bear rivalry, the Packers posted 30 victories against 12 defeats and three knots. Since 1937, when the Cardinals opened with a 14-7 win but then lost 34-13, the Chicago entry has tried 16 times to post Victory No. 13 without success. In fact, there was only one tight squeeze in those nine years - 14-13 in 1941. The rivals will be battling for the 46th time in Chicago's Comiskey park next Sunday afternoon and the circumstances are different, indeed, from former years. In fact, they are quite reversed. No longer are the Packers (not yet, anyway) the high scoring machine that rolled up 225 points over the Cards in the last six games and, but the same token, no longer are the Cardinals the weak scoring motor that scored only 86 markers in those six tilts. Going in Sunday's game, the Cardinals are leading the league in offense with 180 points while the Packers are second lowest (next to Boston) in point production with 77 - less than half the Card total. One redeeming feature, however, lies in the second best defensive mark in the league - 82 points...The Packers, as they go through a tough week working out an offense, are still in the running for the division championship although Sunday's game will be their last chance to keep those title hopes alive. The Cards have won four and lost three while the Packers split in six starts. But the Cardinals present a terrible barrier for the Bays in view of this high-scoring offense, and the lads of Jimmy Conzelman have championship ideas of their own. The Cards hold the No. 1 position in passing, scoring, kickoff returns and field goal kicking (tied with Packer Ted Fritsch) and are represented among the leaders in every department of individual effort except punt returns. This shows, along, that the Cards are definitely "on the ball"...Against all this the Packers present their stellar defense which allowed only one touchdown in each of the last four games - two of which were scored on picked-up fumbles. Card Pat Harder, the rookie fullback from Wisconsin, slipped into third place behind Bill Dudley of Pittsburgh and Frank Filchock of New York in ball carrying over the weekend and Elmer Angsman, the former Notre Dame halfback, retained his sixth place. Harder has gained 258 yards on 70 attempts and Angsman 234 yards in 37 attempts, for an average of 6.3 yards per rush. Card Paul Christman continues to lead the passers with 69 completions in 136 attempts for an average of .507, a gain of 1,079 yards and nine touchdowns. Only eight of his attempts have been intercepted. Ward Cuff, the Cardinals' kicking specialist, remained at the head of the scorers with 46 points, but had his lead cut to three points when Dudley and Fritsch each produced a touchdown over the weekend to tie for second with 43 points. He is tied with Fritsch in field goals. Packer Roy McKay still leads league punters with an average of 42.1 in 36 tries...Two of the first five receivers are Cardinals, Bill Dewell maintaining his second position seven passes behind Jim Benton of Los Angeles, but remaining the league's most productive catcher with an average gain of 23.5 yards for 22 passes and six touchdowns. Mal Kutner, the young Texas rookie, is fifth with 15 receptions. Frank Seno, one of the veterans on Conzelman's team, is the league's No. 1 kickoff handler and Marshall Goldberg, another veteran, has moved into third place among interception leaders.

IT'S 50 YARDS OR NO COUNT FOR BLACKBURN

NOV 6 (Chicago) - William Whitford Blackburn, Jr., who for three years wasn't big enough to play high school football but outgrew that deficit sufficiently to become an All-American center at Rice Institute, today is recognized as one of the most versatile players in the National league. Blackburn signed with the Chicago Cardinals as a center but it seems that each Sunday the 6 foot 5 1/2 inch, 225 pounds Texan provides a pleasant surprise to the Cardinal coaches by exhibiting a new talent. When Ray Mallouf, who previously had done most of the Cardinals' punting, suffered an injury, Coach Jimmy Conzelman was stymied until Blackburn admitted he had done a little kicking down Texas way. He was sent into the game to kick and has been doing that chore ever since...SHOW IT WASN'T LUCK: Blackburn, the ball carrier, made his debut in Boston last Sunday. Just after the Texan had taken a lateral pass and ran 52 yards for a touchdown, Assistant Coach Phil Handler called him over beside him on the bench. All the other players could hear of the conversation was Blackburn's exclamation - "Who, me?" The Texan went back into the game, presumably to kick. From deep punt formation, he took the ball and ran right through the Boston Yanks' defense for 50 yards. Incidentally, that touchdown run, the longest dash of the day, came as a surprise to Blackburn, too. Mallouf forward passed to Mal Kutner, and Blackburn was running downfield to block for the ball carrier. When Kutner was stopped, he lateraled to Blackburn and the latter outran the speediest men on the Yanks' eleven, Boris Dimanchoff, formerly of Purdue, to score. Nobody knows better how Blackburn developed his football talents than his wife, Ruth. Blackburn always takes his personal cheering section with him on football trips and that section, his wife, also is his most severe critic...MEMBER OF ALL-STAR SQUAD: Ruth watched Bill grow from a 140 pound high school boy rather rapidly. He succeeded in making his high school eleven in Houston only in his senior year. At Rice Blackburn played center, blocking back and end. He was a member of the Chicago All-Star squad which beat the Los Angeles Rams in the game sponsored by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., this fall. Blackburn went from Rice into the Marine corps and became a first lieutenant. He served in the South Pacific for 42 months. As the Cardinals prepare for the game with the Green Bay Packers in Comiskey park next Sunday, Blackburn's teammates admit they no longer will be surprised to see the tall Texan lining up at any position.

'We're Still in Title Race;' Packers

NOV 7 (Green Bay) - The Green Bay Packers figure that the team that cops the Western division championship will lose three games. And the Chicago Cardinals, who play the Packers in Chicago's Comiskey park next Sunday afternoon, figure the same thing. If somebody mentioned that the Bears or Los Angeles Rams wouldn't lose another game in the vicinity of Rockwood lodge or the Bay training are, they'd be scalped at sunrise. It's quite obvious that one of those two clubs, the Bears or Rams, will lose a game because they meet on the west coast next Sunday. From the Packer-Cardinal angle, it seems that the Rams are the people's choice Sunday because the Cards figure they're going to beat the Bears in Chicago Dec. 1. In such an event, the Bears would have three losses and it would be up to the Cardinals and Packers to hand the Rams their third loss. But wait a minute! The Cardinals and Packers may have the same intentions but only one has a chance to capitalize - the club that wins next Sunday's 46th Packer-Card tiff and games thereafter including a second Packer-Cardinal fuss in Green Bay Nov. 24. Coach Curly Lambeau's men adopted the following resolutions Wednesday: "1. We firmly believe that the team that wins the Western division title till lose three games. 2. We are fully aware of the fact that we must win our remaining five games to share or win the championship. 3. Don't count us out of the race yet." That's the story, folks, and may the Packers carry out their resolutions...Among the marked men the Packers have in mind are Pail Christman and Ray Mallouf, T-quarterbacks who do all of the Cardinal passing; halfback Marshall Goldberg; fullback Pat Harder, ex-Wisconsin star; and Billy Dewell, pass snatching end. Christman is reportedly the ace of the Cardinal pitchers but if his control is bad Mallouf takes over. Dewell has been doing most of the receiving. Another troublemaker is Ward Cuff, former New York Giant, who has been carrying the Cards in the kicking department as well as leading the league in scoring with 46 points. Cuff and Packer Ted Fritsch are tied in field goals with four in eight attempts apiece. Cuff has kicked 22 extra points and Fritsch seven...The colorful Cardinals are known as the "harmony kings". Eight players composed the "Cardinal Victory Song" on the train last Sunday night while homeward bound following their 28 to 14 victory over the Boston Yanks.

THE RACE IS ON FOR SELECTING ALL-TIME PACKER TEAM

NOV 7 (Green Bay) - Let's go fans; the race is on for the all-time Green Bay Packer football team to be presented between halves of the Packer-Cardinal game at City stadium Nov. 34. For your convenience, we are publishing tonight a handy blank on which you can write out your all-time team. Mail this to the Sports Editor, Press-Gazette, and your selections will be added to the All-Time standings, also published for the first time tonight. Don't forget! The blank must be signed. Also for your convenience tonight, we are publishing teams selected by Packer players to help you recall names of a lot of stars who saw action in the 20's and 30's. The nine former players asked to select a team were chosen strictly at random and in some cases the selectors were those who were available first by telephone Wednesday afternoon. The principal idea was to give you a general cross-section over a period of years and thereby help you recall the various aces. As a further convenience we'll publish later names of nearly every Packer player who ever saw action since the word go in 1921. The nine teams listed with his story were chosen by Charley Mathys and Tubby Bero, members of early Packer teams; back Tom Hearnden, St. Norbert coach who played in 1927 and 1928; back Arnie Herber, ex-West High star who pegged Packer passes from 1930 to 1939; center Jug Earp; fullback Clarke Hinkle; end Milt Gantenbein; Verne Lewellen; and end Al Rose. Their selections have been noted in the standings. But now the final team is up to you fans - many of whom have seen Packer teams in action here since Curly Lambeau first organized the group. Here is a slight change in tabulating the selections. Instead of listing linemen as right end, left end, right tackle, etc., we will publish your end, tackle or guard and halfback selections under one heading because a number of fans will likely select players for positions (right or left) that the player

EYES OF TEXAS (AND CHICAGO) ARE UPON 'EM

End Joe Parker of the Chicago Cardinals has trouble wearing city shoes, so he wrote to his folks in Wichita Falls, Tex., to send along his boots. did not play. As an example, Lavvvie Dilweg has four votes for left end, his normal position, and three for right end, while Don Hutson, normally at left end, has four votes for left end and two for right end. In the standings, we will publish the total number of points each player polled at end, tackle, etc., regardless of specific position, but on our master sheet we will total the points each player got for each position, right or left. It is interesting to note that thus far Mike Michalske is a unanimous choice for left guard. Hinkle, incidentally, has eight or the nine votes thus far for fullback, the other being for Ted Fritsch, who was selected by Hink himself. Hinkle, incidentally, found it hard to pick his ends. He was sure of Hutson but said he had to alternate Dilweg and Gantenbein at the other end. And it also is well to inject this note: The Press-Gazette plans absolutely no "campaigning" for any candidate. This is strictly a poll for the fans to select their all-time team and then take a look at it Nov. 24. The poll is being conducted by the Press-Gazette, through Green Bay Packers, Inc.

CARDINALS RATE AS FAVORITES IN PACKER BATTLE

NOV 7 (Chicago Tribune) - "This certainly is not like the old daze, and I do mean d-a-z-e." The inflection in the voice of Coach Jimmy Conzelman bore no trace of nostalgia, rather one of escape, as he watched the Chicago Cardinals run through a snappy practice session in Comiskey park yesterday in preparation for their game with the Green Bay Packers in the same park Sunday. Conzelman also expressed surprise that the Cardinals were regarded as favorites over Green Bay, a state of affairs that hasn't existed in the NFL for years. The last time the Cardinals defeated Green Bay was in 1937. The Cardinals won the first of the two game series that year, 14 to 7, but lost the second, 34 to 14. The Cardinal coaches anticipate little trouble in keeping the team up for their final four games - Green Bay, Los Angeles, a second game with the Packers, and the Bears. "My biggest trouble," said Conzelman, "is to keep the team free from overconfidence. I think we have learned our lesson, however, in that respect. We lost to the Bears and the Giants because of overconfidence, but hereafter we will wait until the final whistle before we start counting up a victory. The boys realize we still have a chance of winning the western division title and they are ready to give anybody a helluva debate on the subject." The Cardinals can win the western division title if somebody will lend them a little support. The team only asks that some other team beats the Bears and the south side entry promises to take its remaining four games, including the one with the Bears. The Packers will find the Cardinals on guard against any of the old Green Bay tricks, like stealing the ball. The Packers sidestepped a shutout by the Bears Sunday by stealing the ball and going on from that point for a touchdown. Conzelman has cause to remember the Packers' ball stealing proclivities. Back in 1942, the Cardinals were well on their way to a victory until Charley Brock, who now is captain of the Packers, stole the ball from Cardinal Bob Morrow and ran for a decisive touchdown. The Bears learned last Sunday that the Packers are still at it. Milburn (Tiny) Croft, 275 pound tackle, stole the ball from Dante Magnani to set up the Green Bay touchdown.

Packers Guard Against Missed Signals With Indoor Session

PACKERS GUARD AGAINST MISSED SIGNALS WITH INDOOR SESSION

NOV 8 (Green Bay) - It's amazing what a little thing like a missed signal can do. Take the case of the Green Bay Packers. The NFL standings show them with three wins and three losses, but the Packers feel it should read five wins and one defeat. Missed signals cost the Packers victories in the Los Angeles game (21-17) and last Sunday's Bear test (10-7). In both games, the Bays had countless opportunities to score but something was "missing" inside the 30 and even the 20 on several occasions. For instance, last Sunday the Packers had penetrated Bear territory under their own power seven times but couldn't produce because something went haywire with the signals. With this in mind Coach Curly Lambeau kept his boys away from physical drill on Thursday and put them through a long indoor session on drills. Lambeau hopes it brings results, especially on offense where his lads have been far from effective. The Packer offense, we all realize, is not up to par of the National league course. The Bays, in six games, have averaged 2.8 yards per rush and have completed .299 percent of their passes as compared to the Cards' .493 percent. And it is needless to say that the Packer offense will have to be clicking if Lambeau's gents expect to whip the Cardinals. The Packer defense has sparkled but it will be tested to the limit against the high scoring Cardinals in Chicago Sunday. The Cards produced 180 points in seven games and the Bays 77 in six...Providing the Cards play a normal game, Green Bay, in order to win, must continue their outstanding play on defense and must produce offensively. Lambeau is high in his praise of the Cardinal team, which until the last two Sundays, was known as a first half club. Then they blew down the Rams, 31-10, and erased Boston, 28-14. The Packer coach and his players, however, feel that the team that cops the Western division title will lose three games. Both the Cards and Packers have three setbacks which means that on Sunday somebody will be knocked from the title race...The last stiff outdoor session was held at the City stadium practice field this morning and everybody was running hard including Bob Adkins, who fractured his leg in the New York Giants exhibition Sept. 10. After a brief workout on defense, the Bays polished their offensive to a degree that may spell trouble for the Cardinals. What Lambeau will use in the line of an attack against the Cards if, of course, off the record but it's a sure bet that both his running and passing will get a sound test. Mixing a pass and a run at the right time is the most effective means; like a pitcher with a change of pace...The team will leave for Chicago on the North Western Saturday afternoon at 4:15 and will billet at the Knickerbocker hotel. From Chicago, the report is that upwards of 40,000 fans will see the Battle to Survive. With good weather, over 50,000 may attend. The Packers drew the applause of the partisan Chicago crowd with their smashing play against the Bears last Sunday. And for the Joe Q. Fan, Sunday's game should be a beautiful test between the Packers' rugged defense and the Cardinals high power offense.

PACKERS JUMP INTO FIRE IN GAME WITH CARDS

NOV 8 (Milwaukee Journal) - If the Bear game last Sunday was the frying pan for Curly Lambeau's Green Bay Packers, Sunday's with the Chicago Cardinals at Comiskey park, Chicago, will be the fire. The days in which a game with the Cardinals might be regarded as a breather, or even as a game to be taken in stride, are over. The Cardinals this year are the most potent ground gaining and scoring eleven in the league. Under the tutelage of Jimmy Conzelman, who returned this season after a two year absence in which he served the St. Louis Browns of the American league, they have won four games, lost three, and have taken over the lead, or almost taken it over, in just about everything important in the column of statistics. Operating off the T, which Conzelman installed this year with the help of Carl Brumbaugh, they lead or stand with the leaders in ground gained, in passing, with Paul Christman or Ray Mallouf pitching; in lateral passing, in scoring - even in yards penalized. The scoring record especially is impressive. In their seven games, with backs like Marshall Goldberg, Pat Harder and Frank Seno, and their passing, they have averaged little more than 25 points a game. No team has beaten them badly. The Steelers beat them in the rain, 14-7; the Bears won with a rousing fourth quarter rally, after trailing, 17-7, at the end of the third quarter, and the Giants beat them with a fourth quarter rally, 28-24. In turn, they have defeated Detroit twice, Boston and Los Angeles. The Los Angeles game was the high point of the season. They showed no mercy. The score was 34-10. Only factor in favor of the Packers lies in Curly Lambeau's own record in games against Conzelman coached teams. The two of them have been sending out rival football teams since 1921 and only once - in 1921 - when Conzelman captained the Rock Island Independents, has a team of his left the field with a victory over Green Bay. Conzelman subsequently coached off and on, at Detroit, Providence, and the Cardinals. Since the 1921 game he has lost. The game will be rough, but, happily, the Packers will be ready for the worst. They emerged from the Bear game last week without any new injuries, and Friday were in their peak condition of the fall. Cliff Aberson, rookie halfback, won a starting assignment with his performance against the Bears - both running and passing - and will be in the left halfback slot when the team takes the field. Sunday's game will probably be played before 35,000 fans. It will be first of a two game series. The second will be played in Green Bay November 24.

LAMBEAU SINGS CARDS' PRAISES, SO WATCH OUT!

NOV 8 (Chicago Tribune) - "We've had tough going all season and all we have to do next Sunday is try to whip a team that has the best chance of winning the NFL western division title." That was the attitude taken by Curly Lambeau, coach of the Green Bay Packers, in a telephone conversation yesterday, as he sized up Sunday's game with the Chicago Cardinals in Comiskey park. "We know the Cardinals use the T formation, the same as the Bears and the Philadelphia Eagles, whom we already have met this year. However, those Cardinals don't follow the same pattern every week, so it looks like we will have to toss away our script on defense against the T next Sunday. Our big problem will be to find the Cardinal carrying the ball, if studying the work of Coach Jimmy Conzelman's team in previous games means anything. I think the Cardinals have the best personnel in the league and they have the power that might explode at any stage of the game. However, we still are the Packers and will be ready to give Chicago fans a good game." A glance at the official National league statistics confirms Lambeau's high regard for the Cardinals. They are pacing the league on the basis of yards gained as well as points scored. The south side team has gained ground at the rate of 345.2 yards per game over a span of seven contests and also holds the leadership in passing, kickoff returns, and field goal kicking. Paul Christman continues to lead the league's passers with 69 completions in 136 attempts for an average of .507, a gain of 1,079 yards and nine touchdowns. Ward Cuff, the kicking specialist, remains at the head of the scorers with 46 points. Two of the top five receivers are Cardinals, Bill Dewell maintaining his second position seven passes behind Jim Benton of Los Angeles, but remaining the circuit's most productive catcher with an average of 23.5 yards for 22 passes and six touchdowns. Mal Kutner is fifth with 15 receptions. Ted Fritsch, the 210 pound Packer back, who ranks third in the league in scoring, with 43 points, compiled on four touchdowns, seven extra points and four field goals, came in for considerable attention in yesterday's practice session, along with Larry Craig, Roy McKay and Irvin Comp, who does most of the Green Bay passing. Following the field drill and at the squad meeting last night the Cardinals spent some time with the "Grid Tutor", a magnetic football board designed by Alexis Thompson and Greasy Neale, owner and coach, respectively, of the Philadelphia Eagles.

PACKERS IN 'LAST CHANCE' TEST

NOV 9 (En Route To Chicago) - The Green Bay Packers hope to explode some offensive fireworks in Comiskey park Sunday afternoon. At the same time, they'll try to pour water on the Chicago Cardinals' explosives which have blasted 24 touchdowns, more than any other club scored thus far in the NFL. It will be the 46th meeting of these two ancient rivals since 1921. The Packers will be seeking their 17th straight win since 1937 when the Cards opened with a 14-7 win but lost the second tussle, 34-24. Since 1937 the Packers clubbed out some lopsided wins, tops of which occurred at City stadium in 1942 when the Bays won, 55-24. This easy victory followed a spectacular 17-13 Bay win under the lights at Comiskey park when Charley Brock stole the ball and ran for the winning touchdown. But history can be discarded for tomorrow's match which may draw nearly 40,000 fans. The tables have turned this year and, though the Packers and Cards haven't collided yet, the records show Jim Conzelman's team as a powerful offensive unit and Curly Lambeau's aggregation as a tough defensive machine. Briefly, the Cards scored 180 points compared to the Packers' 77 and, defensively, the Cards gave up 128 markers and the Bays 82...Sunday's game is a "last chance" effort for both clubs, each of which have three losses. However, both teams think the Western division winner will have three losses and experts agree with this thought. The Cards, for instance, have the privilege of playing both the Rams and Bears again. Regardless, the loser of Sunday's game will be out of the title race - but definitely. The Cardinals are looking for the passing of young Cliff Aberson and the Packers will be doing the same with Paul Christman and Ray Mallouf, ace T-quarterbacks, who do all of the Card passing. The Packers, however, have about six guys who can pass, chief of whom are Tony Canadeo and Irv Comp. The big deciding points in this game will be the forward walls. The Packers' front line performed brilliantly against the Bears' T last Sunday, and should continue tomorrow although the Cardinals' version of the T is supposedly different. At any rate, it will be a supreme test for the Lambeau-devised defense...The Packer line is in good shape. Guard Ed Neal, who was slowed up somewhat last Sunday, is at top condition. Guard Bob Adkins, who broke his leg against the Giants Sept. 10, may get in. If the Packers kick off, Lambeau probably will start Craig and Wells, ends; Croft and Lipscomb, tackles; Neal and Forte, guards; Brock, center; Keuper, quarterback; Aberson, left half; Smith, right half; and Fritsch, fullback. If the Packers receive, Luhn and Goodnight may be at ends; Ray and Lipscomb, tackles; Pregulman and Wildung, guards; Brock, center; and Craig, Comp, Forte and Fritsch in the backfield. Working off the T, the Cardinals have score 12 touchdowns by passing and 12 by rushing. They have such hard running backs as Pat Harder, the former University of Wisconsin dynamo, Marshall Goldberg and Frank Seno. That trio, plus the passing arms of Christman and Mallouf, has provided the Cards scoring punch.

HOSE PACKERS NOT TOO OLD TO TRY NEW TRICKS

NOV 9 (Chicago Tribune) - "These Packers are about the best tricksters in the NFL and don't let a thing like this happen to you Sunday." This warning was given to the Chicago Cardinals yesterday by Coach Jimmy Conzelman as they watched motion pictures of a game between the Cardinals and Packers back in 1942. One phase of the picture was re-run several times to emphasize the coach's point. Charley Brock of the Packers was shown stealing the ball from Bob Morrow and breaking away to score the touchdown that beat the Cardinals. Brock still is with the Packers and the Cardinals declared that if the Green Bay athlete steals the ball tomorrow in Comiskey park he will have to take an arm from one of the Cardinals with it. Prior to the motion picture session, the Cardinals engaged in one of their most extensive offensive drills of the season. They had been working on defense all week in the hope of finding a way to stop the heavy forward wall of the Packers, biggest line in the league. The Cardinals have an idea the Packers worked this week on formations designed to thwart Billy Dewell, adept pass receiver, who ranks second in the league. Dewell, accordingly, will find a new protection formation on his side against the Packers. Ward Cuff, the Cardinals' kicking expert, was in top form, booting the ball regularly between the uprights from the 45 yard line. In the event the going gets rough tomorrow, Cuff's kicking will be one of the Cardinals' chief weapons. Ted Fritsch of the Packers also rates as one of the best placement kickers in professional football.

EXPECT 40,000 TO SEE PACKERS-CARDS

NOV 9 (Chicago) - Jimmy Conzelman's Cardinals, still very much in the NFL pennant picture, will mix with the Green Bay Packers tomorrow afternoon at White Sox Park in a game that is expected to attract over 40,000. Gridiron hostilities get underway at 2 p.m. Ever since 1921, the Windy City Redbirds and the Wisconsin Lambeaus have been having it out on the pigskin front. During this string of combats, the Packers have won 30 against a dozen triumphs for the Cardinals and there were three tie games. The total point score gives the Packers a 749 to 682 edge over the Chicagoans. The Cardinals have been running wild this season offensively. They are blessed with a sure-shot passer in Paul Christman and he has been finding the range for a flock of touchdowns. Marshall Goldberg, the former Pittsburgh U All-American halfback, is again performing brilliantly along with Ward Cuff, a veteran pro footballer, who was an ace with the New York Giants for a half dozen seasons. In Pat Harder, Wisconsin, and Elmer Angsman, Notre Dame, the Cards have come up with a sterling pair of recruit backs while Bill Blackburn, center from Rice Institute, has proved a sensation with his touchdown activities, thanks to some lateral passes and interceptions. The Packers are set for the fray. The Green Bayians came out of the Bear game little the worst for wear, and Coach E.L. Lambeau will have his fill roster available for the fracas. The Bays will have a rugged defense as only 82 points have been scored against them and they have spent a lot of time in practice this week knocking down forward passes.

NOV 10 (Chicago Tribune) - The Chicago Cardinals and the Green Bay Packers will take the field in Comiskey park today fully impressed with the old military theme - "This is it." Today's game represents the crossroads in the western division title race of the NFL, for a defeat would automatically eliminate either the Cardinals or the Packers from all chances of further consideration. The Packers have a season record of three defeats against as many victories, while the Cardinals will be battling for their fifth victory against three losses. Today's game presents an interesting paradox - the highest scoring team in the league, as represented by the Cardinals, and the best defensive team in the western division and the second best defensive unit in the league. The Cardinals have totaled 180 points in seven games for an average of 25.7 points per contest

A BEAR FINDS YARDS ARE A BIT HARD TO GET!

Dante Magnani of the Bears loses five yards on an attempted end run against the Green Bay Packers in their National Football league game in Wrigley field yesterday.

A crowd of 46,321 saw the Bears win, 10 to 7. The Bears scored a touchdown and field goal in the third quarter for their 30th victory in the long series.

as compared with the Packers' 12.8. Defensively the Cardinals have yielded 128 points, or 18.2 per game, while the Packers have a record of 13.6 average for six games, but only 7.7 for the last four contests. Offensively, the Packers have the lowest mark - 77 - in the western division and only Boston, with 59 total points, can take the dubious honor away from Green Bay in the whole league. In three games, the Bears twice held Green Bay to one touchdown and Detroit equaled that feat. Green Bay made two touchdowns against Los Angeles, Philadelphia, and Pittsburgh and made added points as the result of field goals by Ted Fritsch and a safety by tackle Urban Odson. Mendota, Ill., will honor one of its favorite sons before game time when Rufus De Witz, who is now coaching at St. Charles by who was Frank Seno's football instructor at Mendota, will present the Cardinal halfback with a gift. Seno broke a league record when he ran back a kick 105 yards and a touchdown in the Polo Grounds against the Giants October 20.

PACKERS PLAY CARDS IN CHICAGO SUNDAY

NOV 10 (Milwaukee Journal) - The Green Bay Packers came back to town Saturday night with high hopes that their visit this weekend, on which they will meet the Chicago Cardinals at Comiskey park Sunday, will be a little happier than last week's, on which they played the Chicago Bears. A week ago they also came to town with high hopes, then saw them dashed by the unkindest of breaks when Ted Fritsch fumbled and Ed Sprinkle recovered for the decisive touchdown in a 10-7 licking. The defeat stung. In the week since, though, the Packers have recovered, and Saturday night they arrived back in town in a mood to make the Cardinals pay. On top of this, they were in their best physical condition of the fall, having come out of the usually hard Bear game without new injuries. The assignment against the Cardinals promises to be every bit as tough, if not tougher, when the one against the Bears last week. Jimmy Conzelman, back at the helm of the red shirted south side eleven after two years in baseball with the St. Louis Browns, has assembled one of the strongest teams in the league, with a rock ribbed line and a backfield of great potency, including such stars as Pat Harder, late of Wisconsin; Marshall Goldberg, Frank Seno, Paul Christman and Ray Mallouf. Christman and Mallouf, operating at quarterback in the T, do most of the passing, which the Cardinals have used with exceptionally good results. Green Bay's high hopes rest largely on the team's defensive strength. No team has been able to halt the Cardinals on a dry field as yet, but the Packers have their own ideas. The Pittsburgh Steelers held the Conzelman eleven to seven points in a rainstorm in September, but all others have yielded from 17 points up to 36. Lambeau and his right hand bowlers, Walt Kiesling and Don Hutson, have the utmost confidence in Green Bay's defensive strength, however, and the records support them. The Packers, after their shaky start against the Bears at Green Bay, in which they yielded 30 points, have turned in the outstanding defensive job in the league. In their last four games they have had only 31 points scored against them. Cliff Aberson, rookie left halfback whose all-around play provided one of the bright spots of Green Bay's play last week, will probably start at left halfback Sunday, and may provide the offensive sparkplug the club has lacked so far. His passing and running both a week ago were sharp. A side light on the game is the record of the rival coaches. Jimmy Conzelman, in his years at Rock Island, Detroit, Providence and the Cardinals, has beaten a Lambeau coached team only once.
