PACKERS DOWN CHICAGO CARDS, 13-0

GAME RECAP (GREEN BAY PRESS-GAZETTE)

(GREEN BAY) - A Packer team, that looked like the greatest that ever wore the gold and blue, gave Chris O'Brien and his Chicago Cardinals a football lesson Sunday afternoon at the City stadium that they probably won't forget for a long time. When Head Linesman Iverson tooted the horn for the end of the fracas, there was big 7 and 6 on the scoreboard for the Packers while the Cardinals has nothing but a row of goose eggs. It sure was an unlucky 13 for the South Siders from the Windy City. And the funny part of it all that Chris O'Brien is willing to admit that the Packers are very much there. While the Cardinal manager was collecting his money at the bank after the game, he tossed this verbal bouquet in the direction of Lambeau & Co.: "I don't think there is another team in the league that has a thing on the Packers. The Green Bay club certainly played football against us. I can honestly say that I never have seen a better looking pro team. If the Packers can keep up the clip they showed against us, I think your club is going to come mighty near copping the national championship.

GREAT DAY FOR DUNN

It certainly was a great day for Red Dunn and the 4,500 spectators who saw the Cardinals get theirs aplenty. Revenge is sweet and Dunn had a smile on his face about a mile wide when it was over but the shouting. For two years, Red drew his football wares from Chris O'Brien. Toward the close of last season, O'Brien turned sour on the former Marquette star and he publicly announced that Dunn would be one of the first to go when he started his housecleaning. Naturally this didn't set very well on the Red-Head, who is a real footballer if there ever was one. But he got even with O'Brien and his hirelings. Dunn was in the midst of everything and when he tucked the cowhide under his arm it took half the visitors to stop him. Red seemed to take special delight in peeling off yards right in front of the Cardinal bench where "King Chris" was sitting on a rather uncomfortable gridiron throne. It is safe to say that O'Brien must have chewed up a dozen cigars watching the Packer quarterback strut his stuff.

CARDS BADLY OUTCLASSED

The score doesn't half tell how badly the Cardinals were outclassed. From the time Lewellen dashed 25 yards off tackle on the first play of the game until Dilweg grabbed a pass and took the ball to the Cards' 5-yard line on the next play to the last thrust in the closing seconds, Guy Chamberlin's club spent an awful busy afternoon keeping their goal line free from more than two touchdowns. Only twice during the game were the Chicagoans really dangerous. In the third frame a couple of passes put the ball well down in the Packers' backyard but the Bays knocked down a couple of tosses and they regained the oval on the 20-yard line. Again in the fourth round (and it was a round at that), the visitors picked up 35 yards on two passes but their next air move was snagged by Enright and he stepped back to the Packers' 35-yards stripe before he was dumped. Those two minor offenses tell the Cardinals' advancement story in a nutshell. During the first half, they didn't gain enough yardage to even worry the most rabid Packer fan.

STOPPED 'EM NEAR GOAL

The only time that the Chicagoans seemed able to halt the Packers was when they were fighting in the shadow of their goal posts. It is safe to say that the Big Bay Blues were "up there" close at least a half dozen times without making the scoring grade. The Packers launched three thrusts that looked like sure counts in the first quarter but each time the Cardinals held tight. Twice passes went astray and a fumble spilled the beans on the other attempt. But in the second quarter, the Bays were not to be denied. The period was just a few minutes old when Dick O'Donnell speared a pass from Lewellen for an 8-yard gain. This put the cowhide on the Cards' 40-yard line. Lewellen slashed through for a first down. Dunn then skirted past the Cardinal bench for another ten. Two line plunges netted little but then Dunn heaved the ball to Dilweg, who made one of his copyrighted catches. He was downed four yards from a touchdown. Lewellen picked up about 3 yards in two rushes. Here the string was cut on the bag of tricks and Dunn tossed a lateral pass to Eddie Kotal who pranced over for the first touchdown. Red Dunn missed the goal kick. This was the only time that Chris O'Brien smiled during the entire game.

ONLY FLASH IN PAN

Later in this quarter, McDonnell grabbed one of Lewellen's punts and dashed back down the field. He jaunted some 45 yards before Dunn nailed him. But this was only a flash in the pan because on the second following play, Enright intercepted a Cardinal pass, choking off a weak-kneed rally. After the Cardinals' short lived spurt in the third quarter, the Packers righted their football ship again, and things went smoothly. Red Smith bobbed into the limelight during this period. After Lewellen, who punted superbly all during the game, had booted to the Cards' 29-yard line, the visitors attempted a pass, Smith pulled out of the line and made a circus catch but momentarily he lost his sense of direction. He took about three steps towards the Packers' goal before he turned around and stepped forth in the right direction. The crowd got a good laugh and even the players had to grin. Just at the end of the period, the Packers tried a pass for a touchdown. Springsteen grabbed the ball and started one way. Then he turned back trying to dodge and was dumped on the Cards' 4-yard line as time was called.

PASSES, PASSES, PASSES

In the first play of the final frame, Weller kicked from behind his goal line to Red Dunn who was dumped on the Chicagoans' 42-yard mark. Dunn grabbed a pass from Lewellen for a 15-yard gain. After Lewellen had been stopped, a pass to Dilweg failed by inches. The Cards got Lavvie hard on this play but he survived the shock. Lambeau was on the receiving end of a toss from Dunn and it was first down for the Packers on the Cardinals' 9-yard stripe. Lewellen shot by the once mighty Ellis for six yards and then Enright made a yard. Lewellen was equal to the occasion and he squeezed through the line for the necessary touchdown distance. Red Dunn added the extra point and everybody breathed easier. There was a lot of excitement in the closing minutes as the air was full of footballs. The Cards were tossing 'em far and wide with but little success while the Packers' bullet-like pegs made another score look possible. In between times, Springsteen got rough with O'Donnell and Referee Cahn got rough with both of them so he chased the battlers to the sidelines. With but two minutes to go, the Packers uncorked several new plays and the Cardinals were run ragged. As the whistle blew a Packer pass fell dead back of the visitors' goal line but who cared. Enough is plenty.

PYLE SAYS HIS STAR WILL BE O.K. BY SUNDAY

OCT 18 (Green Bay Press-Gazette) - According to a telegram received by A.B. Turnbull, president of the Green Bay Football corporation, from Charles C. Pyle, manager of the New York Yankees, Red Grange was not hurt as badly as reported in the game against the Bears and he will be in condition to play against the Packers here on Sunday. Pyle's telegram is as follows: "Grange not hurt as badly as reported. Will be in condition for next Sunday's game." The news about Grange's banging in the Bear game traveled around the Green Bay football sector like wildfire and the sport desk of the Press-Gazette was kept busy all Monday answering queries about the famous Red-Head. Several calls from Upper Michigan were made about the "Wheaton Iceman"...MR. TURNBULL'S STATEMENT: Speaking about the Grange injury, President Turnbull of the Green Bay Football corporation had this to say: "The telegram from Mr. Pyle is the latest news we have about Grange. Pyle says Grange will be in condition to play Sunday and that is all we know aside from the news stories in the Chicago papers which said that Grange hoped to have recovered from his injury sufficiently to play against the Packers at Green Bay. We have requested Mr. Pyle to keep us in close touch on Grange's condition and the minute we get any reports, they will be published immediately."...RECORD CROWD SURE: "In the meantime, the Football corporation is going ahead with its plans to house the greatest crowd at the City stadium next Sunday that ever witnessed a football game in Wisconsin outside of the "U" contests at Madison. Our advance set sale has been enormous, yet the Football corporation has hopes of having a seat for everybody. 'Enlargements' are now underway at the stadium and seats will be placed at every point of vantage around the playing field."...800 MORE SEATS: "Arrangements were completed last night for an additional 800 seats which will be set up at the east end of the gridiron. The stands at the west end of the field are being moved slightly to afford a better view and to also provide for three rows of bench seats and a greatly enlarged standing room space. In order to handle the record breaking demand for tickets, the Football corporation's office in The Press-Gazette building will be open from 8:30 in the morning until 2:45 and in the evening from 7:30 until 9 p.m."...PLENTY OF TICKETS: "There are still plenty of tickets on hand and we figure that the additional 800 seats will go a long way towards taking care of the 'eleventh hour' rush. However, those desiring tickets are urged not to wait until the last minute because the Football corporation cannot promise how long the supply will last. At the present

YANKEES COMING STRONG

OCT 18 (Chicago) - Despite the injury to Capt. Red Grange, the New York Yankees are all set to invade Green Bay this weekend and hand a trimming to the famous Packers in order to get back into the race for title honors in the National league. The defeat last Sunday at the hands of the Chicago Bears has not in the least disturbed the confidence of the Yankees, rather it has put into the players a greater spirit of determination than ever before. The players have also been considerably cheered by the announcement that the injuries to their fiery captain are not as serious as was first thought and that the chances are bright for his reappearance in the lineup against the Green Bay aggregation. After the game Red went immediately to his home at Wheaton where he is receiving special treatment and is under the care of a doctor. He will take a complete rest for three or four days and by that time confidently expects to be able to get back into the lineup. During the time Grange is recuperating the team will be going through their practice sessions under Coach Ralph Scott, formerly of the Chicago Bears. Incidentally, it might be said that Scott has played against the Packers on numerous occasions and knows their style to a "T" and will no doubt pay special attention to perfecting a defense against the famous passing attack of the Green Bay team...TYRON WONDER GRIDDER: In looking over the makeup of the New York aggregation, one of the most noted sports writers in Chicago was surprised at the great number of famous college stars on the roster besides Grange. Foremost is the famous Eddie Tyron who graced the rolls of the All-American teams for several years while at Colgate. During his final year he was the leading scorer of the country, getting 111 points. And another celebrity is "Wild Bill" Kelly, who captained the All West team which played against an All East team at San Francisco last New Years' day. These two backfielders along with the famous Bo Molenda of Michigan can cause any team considerable trouble to hold them in check. There is another coincidence in the appearance of the Yankees at Green bay. One of the ends on the Yankee team is Ray Flaherty. He is a brother of Dick Flaherty who played a similar position on the Packer team last year and this season also until forced out of the game with injuries. It is said that last year there was considerable argument around Green Bay as to which of the Flahertys was the better end and Ray is exceedingly anxious to convince the people of the Badger City that he has considerable of an edge over his brother. And on the Yankee team, too, is another man who played against the Green Bay aggregation on several occasions. He is Kolls, a center who played for several years with the once famous Rock Island Independents. Kells is a veteran in the pro game and he should have an interesting battle with Earpe of the Packers who also at one time was a member of the Rock Island gang.

BUFFALO PRO CLUB GIVES UP FRANCHISE IN NATIONAL LEAGUE

OCT 18 (Buffalo) - The Buffalo team of the NFL will disband, it was decided Monday by President Ray P. Weil and Alfred J. Lofe, secretary and treasurer of the club. Remaining games on the schedule will be cancelled, they announced. Action to disband was taken after the club received the resignation of George (Dim) Patterson, coach and manager of the team. He gave lack of cooperation from players and interference by club managers as the reasons for his resignation...IN TOUCH WITH CARR: Notification of the Buffalo club's withdrawal from the league was received here this morning by the Football corporation, in the form of a telegram from Alfred J. Lofe, secretary of the Bison organization. President Turnbull got in immediate touch with President Joe F. Carr and every effort possible is being made to bring a first class team here on Sunday, Oct. 30, to fill the date left open by the untimely exit of the Buffaloians.

RIGHT IN STYLE

"RED" GRANGE

CHICAGO—(AP)—Red Grange's injury in Sunday's pro football game has brought fulfillment of one of the famous "galloping ghost's" cherished ambitions—the privilege of 'wearing' a cane.

"For years I longed to carry a cane," said Red, who takes pride in a modest reputation as a smart dresser. "But I was too shy. Now I can carry one, but I'm not so keen about the condition, a torn tendon, which makes it necessary."

Grange still thinks he will be able to play next Sunday against the Packers in Green Bay.

same time that their present captain, Red Grange, was making his reputation at Illinois. And perhaps some of them might have achieved the fame of the Wheaton iceman had not their feats on the gridiron been sidetracked by those of the sorrel-topped Illini star. Last season college football circles were amazed at the performances of "Wild Bill" Kelly of Montana. So great were the feats of "Wild Bill" that he was awarded the signal honor of captaining the All-West team in their annual game with the all-East aggregation on New Year's Day at San Francisco. After his graduation from college Kelly was flooded with numerous offers to play pro ball and cast his lot with the Yankees. In the back line of the invaders will also be Eddie Tyron who gained more than passing fame at Colgate the season before last. Tyron was a member of the varsity team for four seasons because at that time the three year rule had not been put into effect at the Eastern college. During his collegiate career Tyron scored 350 points and 111 of them were accumulated during his final season...TWO STAR FULLBACKS: There are also two fullbacks who just a short time were considered among the real stars of the Big Ten conference. Bo Molenda performed under the direction of Yost at Michigan while Wesley Fry was at the University of Iowa. And beside these Big Ten stars there are several others who played with some of the teams in Major Griffith's circuit. Iowa has another representative in Olson, who was on the varsity for three years in 1924-'24 and '26. Illinois has Crawford, a 220-pound lineman who was on the varsity in 1923 and 1924 and who was on the all-Western team in 1923. Hall, another of the Yankee linemen, was on the Illinois teams for two years and before that one year at Butler. And Indiana furnishes Larry Marks, a backfielder who although always playing with a weak team gained considerable of a reputation as a player. For four years the mainstay of the line of the University of Idaho team was Ray Stephens and so good was his work in 1924 that he was placed on the all-American teams picked by Jones, Rockne and Warner. Beside Colgate several other eastern colleges furnished material for Grange's present team. Syracuse boasts of Bayley, a lineman who finished at that school in 1926. Out of Penn State there is Michalske, a varsity lineman for 3 seasons. And Dartmouth is represented by Maloney who played for 3 season his last being 1925. Last season he acted as assistant coach at his alma mater...OLIVER FROM ALABAMA: And from the sunny south is Oliver, who lists his alma mater as Alabama, the same school which furnished Jones and Perry to the Packers. The west coast has a flock of college men on the Grange team. One is Fritz Kramer, a guard at Washington State college and captain in his last season, 1926. Southern California has Badgro who played end at that school for 3 seasons, last year being on the all-Pacific team. Baker, one of the backs on the Grange team also played at that school for one year and prior to that played two years at the University of Santa Clara. Stanford's only representative is Lawson, who played at that school for 3 yards and in 1923 and 1924 was a unanimous choice for the all-Pacific team picked by Glen Warner and who in 1924 was on the all American picked by Warner, Jones and Rockne. And last but not least is Dick Flaherty's brother is Ray, who played at Gonzaga along with Tiny Cahoon. Last season he played with Wilson's Wildcats in the "Grange" league and was given the berth at end on the all-professional team. He has been going in great form this year and gives every indication of again being the choice of the experts on the mythical eleven.

BULLETIN

OCT 20 (Green Bay Press-Gazette) - All the uncalled for tickets for the Red Grange game, which have been reserved but not paid for at the usual places about town, will be picked up by the Packer ticket men this evening. The Football corporation announced this step a week ago so plenty of time has been afforded prospective customers. All these seats (if there are any) will be resorted and placed on sale at the Football corporation office in The Press-Gazette building. Those who have reserved seats at The Press-Gazette must pick them up early tonight or else the ducats will be sold to first comers.

PACKERS ABOUT SET TO PLAY BADGERS IN MILWAUKEE, OCT. 30

OCT 20 (Green Bay Press-Gazette) - Tentative arrangements were completed last night over the long distance telephone with Johnny Bryan whereby the Packers will invade Milwaukee on Sunday, Oct. 30, to play the Milwaukee Badgers. The game will be played at Athletic park and will take the place of the contest originally scheduled for Nov. 13. This change was made necessary by the withdrawal of the Buffalo club from the National league. The date of Nov. 13 on which the Packers were originally billed for Milwaukee will be filled by some crack eastern team and will take the place of the game scheduled at home for Oct. 30 with the Buffalo aggregation. Holders of season tickets can use their tickets for the Buffalo game at the game to be played in the local stadium on Nov. 13. It is expected that the moving ahead of the Milwaukee game will enable a large number of Green Bay fans to take in the game. It is on the Sunday just after the Marquette homecoming when a great many Green Bay people will be in the Cream City and also being two weeks earlier will no doubt make the weather much more favorable for driving thus allowing many people to motor down for the game.

GRANGE GAME INTEREST CLIMBS HIGH

GRANGE GAME INTEREST CLIMBS HIGH

OCT 20 (Green Bay Press-Gazette) - Ticket, ticket, whose got an extra ticket. That is the game that is being played around here these days as a prelude to the appearance of Red Grange's Yankees against the Green Bay Packers at the City Stadium on Sunday. However, the football corporation is trying to solve the question. Seats to handle an even thousand have been borrowed from the West high school and they will be set up at the east end of the field. Extra benches are being rounded up and in this way Packer officials hope to seat all those that want to glimpse the aggregation of all-Americans over whom Red Grange rule supreme...STANDING ROOM FOR 1,500: There will be standing room to take care of at least 1,500 more and from the way tickets have gone. It is safe to say that all football attendance records in the state, outside of Madison, will be smashed to smithereens. The Packer ticket men who have worked nightly into the wee hours of the morning to handle the flood of mail orders and they are just beginning to see daylight. There probably isn't a city, town or hamlet in upper Michigan, the Fox river valley or northeastern Wisconsin who won't have delegations at Sunday's game. One fan from Winona, Minn., wired in for a half dozen tickets and another order for a baker's dozen came from Wheaton, Ill. A party of Red Grange's home folks are coming here to see the former iceman do his stuff against the Big Bay Blues...ARRIVE SATURDAY NIGHT: The Yanks were originally billed to arrive here Thursday night but Manager Pyle has changed his plans and the Yanks won't hit the Bay until Saturday night. The entire squad is camping at Wheaton, Ill., according to reports received here and they are working out daily under the watchful eye of Coach Scott, who is attempting to build up an air defense which will successfully cope with the Packers' much vaunted passing attack. And in the meantime, the Packers are working out every morning in preparation for the Grange game. The team came out of the grueling battle with the Cardinals in first class shape. Several of the players were banged pretty hard but it is a certainty that every one of the Big Bay Blues will be ready for action when called into the fray...ARE WORKING HARD: The Big Bay Blues realize the strength of their opponents and, accordingly, are going to the limit to be right on edge. Capt. Lambeau has put in several new plays this week and he will be ready to pull the string on the bag of tricks again whenever the opening is ripe.

TRAINING AT WHEATON

OCT 20 (Wheaton, IL) - Every morning at the ball park a flock of huskies composing the team of the New York Yankees of the NFL are going through the various things which make up the routine of a well drilled and well organized football team in preparation for their game on Sunday with the famous Green Bay Packers. The game is to be played at Green Bay. As everyone knows, this town is the home of Red Grange, the famous hero of the gridiron who this season is captain of the Yankees and who is at the present time recuperating at the home of his father from the injury which he sustained last week in the game with the Chicago Bears. The

HERE HE IS

This is a brand new picture of Charlie Pyle's coin collector deluxe. There is sort of a far away look on his face and he is probably thinking about what he is going to do to one George (Brute) Trafton, the Chicago Bears center when the Yanks play the Bruins again later in the season in New York.

Yankees will stay here until Saturday morning when they will go to Chicago and from there to Green Bay. They expect to arrive in Green Bay early Saturday evening so as to get a good night's rest prior to the game. Coach Ralph Scott is busy preparing for an emergency in case Red is not able to get into the game. He has "Wild Bill" Kelly all groomed to fill Grange's place and has prepared a number of plays designed especially for a man of Kelly's capabilities. Kelly himself is a great end runner as is Grange and a lot of the plays which were used when Red is in the game can also be used when Kelly plays the position. Coach Scott expressed himself as very well pleased the way his proteges have been progressing without Grange in the ranks and is confident that they will be able to slip over a win on the doughty Packers. No definite word has come from the physician who is taking care of Grange as to whether or not he will be able to get into the game. However, it is known that the injury is rapidly on the way to recovery. The determination of Red is also aiding greatly in his recovery and it would not be at all surprising if Grange was able to do his stuff on the gridiron at the Badger city.

INVITE PACKERS, YANKS TO RED GRANGE MOVIE

OCT 21 (Green Bay Press-Gazette) - Some weeks ago when talk turned to Red Grange at the Columbus club where the Packers headquarter, Marty Bross, Gonzaga halfback, who was at that time with the Packer squad, chipped in this information: "Sure, I know the guy. I was in a moving picture he made on the coast this summer. Honest I was. I drove a car in a lot of race scenes he was making." The picture Bross referred to was Grange's second appearance as a film star, "The Racing Romeo", and when it opened a four day run at Columbus auditorium Thursday evening there were several as interested in checking up the former Packer's story as in seeing the "Galloping Ghost" swelling his bank roll by starring in an exceedingly funny comedy. And Friday morning they reported that Marty did not tell a whopper at all. He was recognized under the helmet in several of the scenes. Both the Packers and the New York Yankees have been invited to attend the first show Sunday evening as the guests of the auditorium management.

BULLETIN

OCT 21 (Green Bay Press-Gazette) - Tickets for sections S, T and V, were received from the printer this morning and they are now on sale at the Football corporation office in The Press-Gazette building. The total seating capacity of these three sections combined is about one thousand and a goodly number of these tickets are still available. Those wanting seats are urged to step lively as every indication points to a rapid sale within the next 36 hours.

STAGE SET FOR GRANGE-PACKER GAME ON SUNDAY

OCT 21 (Green Bay Press-Gazette) - The invasion of Red Grange here on Sunday with the New York Yankees in their game against the Packers, provided of course that the famous Red gets into action, will mark the first time that he has ever appeared on a football gridiron in the state. While Red was a member of the varsity at Illinois, his team never played Wisconsin, hence Grange never performed at the Wisconsin stadium and since his entrance into professional ranks he has never been nearer to the state than Chicago where he has played on several occasions, first with the Chicago Bears, when he first entered the pro game, then with his own team in the American league last season and now as captain of the Yankees. And incidentally it might be remarked that Red's entrance into professional football was made two years ago when the Packers were playing the Chicago Bears. At that time Grange signed his contract with the Halas Sternaman combine but did not get into the game merely occupying a place on the Bear bench all bundled up in his famous coonskin coat. Since that time Grange has learned a lot about the pro game and has found that it is a much harder row to hoe than playing in college. And although Grange has not performed the miraculous feats in professional football that he did while at college it cannot be denied that the former Wheaton iceman is still the greatest drawing

COMING TO C. C. C.

Not only is "Red" Grange coming to Green Bay in person to play the Packers next Sunday, but he is also coming to Green Bay in his latest motion picture production—the second he has made—"A Racing Romeo" on Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday of this week at Columbus Community Auditorium. There will be matinees daily except Sunday. The Saturday matinee will be a children's show with free "Red Grange" candy bars and several footballs given away.

card in the game whether it be professional or collegiate...RECORD CROWD FORECAST: If favorable weather is dished out here on Sunday the crowd at the game will be the largest ever to see a football contest outside of Madison. And to arrange things so that this monster crowd can be handled efficiently has been a huge problem which has been well taken care of by those in charge. In the first place all available seats in the vicinity have been borrowed for the occasion and have been set up around the field. Ordinarily the City stadium has seating room for about 6,000 people but for game on Sunday there will be about 8,500 seats available. To handle the crowd who will occupy these seats will require about 10 extra gatemen, about 40 extra ushers and about a dozen extra police officers as every seat in the park will be a reserved seat. The gates to the stadium will be opened about a half hour earlier than usual. The Packer ticket office has been opened every day from 9 a.m. until 2:45 in the afternoon and from 7:00 in the evening until the late hours of the evening and once until the early hours of the morning. Requests for tickets have been coming in from all over. About the only redeeming feature of this whole thing for the Packer ticket men has been that the more tickets sold now means that much less to do Sunday (and from the way tickets are moving there won't be very much to do then.)...IS TALKED EVERYWHERE: Around the streets of the town all about one can hear is talk of the game. It certainly is going to be a great day for townfolk and no doubt plenty will happen during the game to give people enough to talk about for weeks to come. People have bought tickets for the contest who have never attended a game before just so that they can be numbered among those who were present and be able to boast about it. The ticket office in The Press-Gazette building will remain open for the rest of the week and every effort will be made to take care of ticket requests. It is a case of first come first served for the few tickets remaining and any who wishes for tickets will have to step lively.

DILWEG, FOOTBALL STAR, TO DIRECT BOYS WORK AT THE COLUMBUS CLUB

OCT 22 (Green Bay Press-Gazette) - Laverne Dilweg, All-American end, Packer football ace, and attorney, is henceforth also a resident of Green Bay, a member of the Brown County bar, and director of Boys Work at Columbus Community club. Veni, vidi, vici! It was not at all to avoid running back and forth from Milwaukee each week that convinced the lanky athlete, according to his own report of the most recent developments in his active career, but because he really liked Green Bay, knew that his wife would like Green Bay and the folks and because he felt that a career in Green Bay offered promise for a youngster as willing to work as this same "Lavvie" has always been. About a month ago officials of the Columbus Community club approached Dilweg, who had performed successfully during his university career as boys secretary in one of the big boy organizations in Milwaukee, regarding the direction of boys club activities at the local club.

The club for some months has intended to augment its personnel in the boys division to properly attend to the steadily increasing enrollment of youngsters and young men. The work was attractive to Dilweg, but he was vitally interested in launching into the professional career for which he had trained himself. Soon the possibility of entering any of several law firms in the city was being considered and not long ago Dilweg accepted on the same afternoon the directorship of boys work at the Columbus Club and a place with Sheridan Evrard and Cranston. He will be at the club every evening and after school afternoons. The first three days of this week the Dilwegs spent in "just shopping for their home" which they are furnishing in Green Bay and both the lawyer-athlete and his bride of less than a year are very definite in their pronouncements that they are here "for keeps". "Right next to football, I've always liked boys who work best," said the Packers star, "I had to work my own way through the university and I hated to leave my work with Northwestern 'Y' as much as I disliked to experience the end of my Associative with boys, supervising their competitive games, working out their natural trends with them has many rewards. I feel particularly fortunate in getting the experience of the busy district attorney's office for my first law work and be able at the same time to indulge in work which I enjoy as well as directing the boys week in this magnificent and thoroughly equipped clubhouse." Ed Johnson, who has for some time been secretary in the boys department, will continue in that capacity.

HUGE CROWD TO SEE SUNDAY'S GAME

OCT 22 (Green Bay Press-Gazette) - The greatest sport event Green Bay has ever experienced will be on tap Sunday afternoon when Red Grange's New York Yankees and the Green Bay Packers have it out in a NFL battle which will get underway promptly at 2:15. Never has the Packer football sector been so aroused over a football game. For several weeks the fans have been clamoring for tickets and the advance sale smashed every known record of the Football corporation by a city block...HAVE GREAT AGGREGATION: The New Yorkers are bringing one of the greatest football teams in the country. So far this season, they have scored victories over Dayton, Cleveland and Buffalo. Last Sunday, Grange and his cohorts lost a tough 12-0 game to the Bears at Cubs park but it was a battle all the way. Charlie Pyle, promoter extraordinary, who is the man behind Grange and his Yankee squad, went over the country with a fine comb in search of the best football material that ever wore moleskins and from the looks of things he succeeded. Money talks and so does Pyle but when it comes to football "Cash and Carry" lets his hired hands do the talking on the chalk-marked field...FAST SET OF BACKS: To begin with, the Yanks have the greatest collection of backs that were ever together on one club. Aside from the superstar, Red Grange, all-American footballer for three year at Illinois, the Yanks have Eddie Tyron, of Colgate; Wild Bill Kelly, of Montana; Bo Molenda, of Michigan; Eddie Fry, of Iowa; Rollie Marks, of Indiana, and Bullet Baker, of California. On the ends, the Yanks have Maloney, of Dartmouth, and Ray Flaherty, of Gonzaga. Last year Flaherty, who is a brother of the Packers' Dick, was picked as the best wingman in professional football. Bayley, of Syracuse; Crawford, of Illinois; Scott, of Wisconsin, and Hall, another Illini, play the tackles...BEST IN EAST: Michalske, who was rated as the best footballer in the east last year, plays guard and captains the Yankees. Other center flankers are Kremer, of California; Olson, of Iowa, and Oliver, of Alabama. Stephens, ace of the 1926 Idaho eleven, passes the ball at center with Kells, a Rock Island Independent veteran, as his first assistant. The New Yorkers arrive here early this evening and will headquarter at the Northland hotel. The Easterners have spent the week at Wheaton, Ill., the hometown of Red Grange. The team stopped at the Wheaton Country club and did their practicing on the greens. Instead of trying to make holes in one, they were drilling new plays with which they hope to make holes in the forward wall of the Big Bay Blues...PACKERS ARE READY: The Packer squad is fit for the battle. Every man on the eleven is in the pink and there isn't a member of Capt. Lambeau's crew who is not eager for a crack at the much-famed New Yorkers. The Bays have spruced up their defense while the smooth working attack has been augmented by several new formation which are quite apt to give Pyle-Grange & Co. plenty to worry about. The winner of this game is going a long way in the championship race and it is safe to say that the Bay gridders have no intention of moving backwards...DONE EVERYTHING POSSIBLE: The Packer management has done everything possible to have a seat for everybody. First another extra thousand seats were set up in the park. This wasn't enough and another grand of seats was squeezed in the stadium along with enough park benches to seat another 650. This means a total seating capacity of about 9,000 and there will be room for another 1,500, at least, to stand up. It will be a great gathering of fans. Tickets have been sold to parties as far north as Winona, Minn. and Marquette, Mich., and as far south as Wheaton, Ill. and Chicago. Stevens Point, La Crosse and Madison are sending large delegations. One of the railroads is running a special "Red Grange Game" excursion and this is expected to bring hundreds of "eleventh hour" spectators...MORE GATE-MEN, USHERS, POLICE: The Football corporation has gone the limit to handle the monster crowd with as little confusion as possible. More gate-men will be on the job; extra ushers will work in the new reserved seat sections; the Legion force will be nearly doubled; every available policeman has been assigned to duty at the stadium by Chief Hawley; the city motorcycle officers

"Poosh 'Em Up"

Sunday afternoon, Green Bay will play host to the greatest gathering in its history. Over 10,000 spectators are expected to attend the football game at the City stadium between Red Grange's New York Yankees and our famous Packers.

In the main stands two additional seats have been sold in each row, which means that everybody will have to push up a little closer. These additional seats are numbered 10-A and 10-B and will of course be alongside the regular seat 10 in each row. Where the insertion of these new seats may divide parties who want to sit together the Football management asks that those affected rearrange their seats so that everybody will be comfortable and happy. Parents accustomed to taking small children into the stands with them will find no room for them since the new seats will take up the usual surplus space.

The management has striven to take care of everybody in the best possible manner and asks that all show a little consideration for the other fellow and straighten out good naturedly any little discrepancies which in the rush may creep in.

The Football Corporation wants to handle the crowd in a way that will make every one want to come again and, with this end in view, the following suggestions are made:

Every spectator is asked to hold his or her own ticket when entering the park. This will eliminate considerable confusion at the gate.

When entering a seat section, show your reserved seat ticket stub to the head usher so that there will be no mistake as to the right reservation.

Reserved seat tickets will be taken at any of the six gates. Each one of the eighteen sections have a letter posted high over the top bench. Watch for it and you will save time in getting to your place quickly.

Sections N., L., E., F., G., H., and M. are located on the right or south side of the field.

Section S. is at the east end of the gridiron.

Sections V., K., D., C., B., A., J., and O. are on the left or north side of the field.

Section T. is located at the west end of the gridiron.

There is standing room space at the east and west ends of the gridiron. Every seat in the park is reserved.
