16,150 Brave Rain As Bays' Defense Collapses in Mud

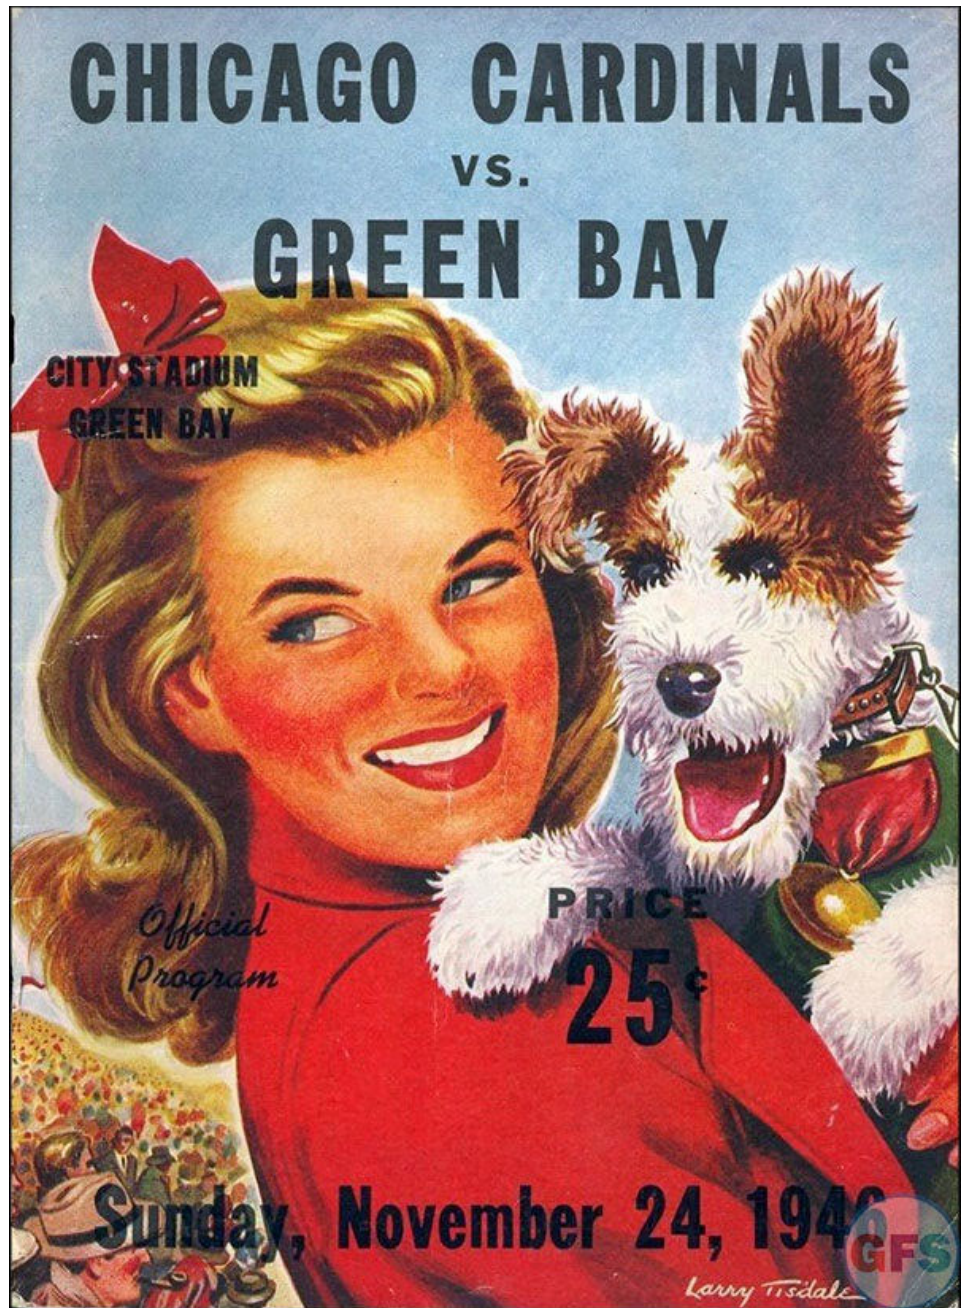

Cards Score 21 Points in 4th Quarter To Whip Packers, 24-6

GAME RECAP (GREEN BAY PRESS-GAZETTE)

(GREEN BAY) - The Green Bay Packers' famed defense - intricate and hard to operate even on a dry field - collapsed for several crucial moments in the mud and rain of City stadium Sunday afternoon. The downfall came early in the fourth quarter when the rain fell hardest, and, within six minutes, the Chicago Cardinals rolled to three quick touchdowns and a final victory verdict of 24-7. It was the first Cardinal victory over Green Bay since 1937 and the first win Card Coach Jimmy Conzelman posted over a Packer eleven since 1921. This 47th game between these rivals, highlight of a Homecoming Weekend, was quite the opposite of the season's opener in Cardinal land two weeks ago when the Bays knocked them out of the championship race, 19-7, but Sunday the Cardinals returned the favor. With 16,150 fans looking on - a large crowd considering the amount of precipitation which the weatherman said would not arrive until Sunday night - the bruising game developed into a mud battle early in the first period when players found themselves dripping with slop. It also developed into a field goal duel between the Packers' Ted Fritsch and Cardinal Ward Cuff...The Packers went ahead in the first quarter on Ted's 32-yard field goal by Cuff tied the count with a 23-yard kick just before the half ended. Midway in the third frame Fritsch put the Packers ahead with a neat field goal from the 36-yard line but five minutes later missed from the 28. When Fritsch missed that kick shortly after the stadium lights were turned on because the field was wrapped in murk, the Cardinals found the key to Green Bay's defense. They didn't hesitate. Paul Christman, the brilliant passing T-quarterback who was on his seat in most of the first Packer-Card tilt, was very much in a vertical position yesterday as he passed his mates into position for the first touchdown, and then leaped two yards for the score...A moment later, Mal Kutner intercepted a Cliff Aberson pass 33 yards away from pay territory. Again it was Mr. Christman who put the Cards down close, firing to Dewell for 23, and later Goldberg went over standing up. The Packers roared back but this definitely wasn't their quarter as they gave up the ball on downs on the Card 39. Elmer Angsman, a 20-year old back, slammed off right tackle and went 61 yards for the third touchdown. Cuff kicked all of the extra points. It was a terrific blow to the Packer defense which had allowed the last four opponents a total of 24 points - the amount Chicago counted Sunday...And, offensively, the Packers had only Fritsch's toe. It was the first time this season Green Bay went touchdown-less. The Bay offense had been a known weakness all season and Coach Curly Lambeau and his boys were forced to come to the conclusion that their defense was their best offense. This was the second time this season that the Bays' defense lagged and, unfortunately, it happened before a home crowd. The first occurred here on Sept. 29 with the Bears winning, 30-7. It is interesting to attempt a guess on which team was damaged most by the mud, rain and slippery carpet. The Packers, it seems, were hurt most because of their defense depends on quick coverage of the various zones. But they couldn't move over this butter-like mush. Many times when they were in position to tackle, the Cardinal backs slithered out of their hands. On the other hand, the Cardinals attempted passes in the rain and, what's more, completed six, three of which led to two touchdowns. And the runners weren't supposed to go far either in that mud, but Angsman raced 61 yards and early in the game Pat Harder, the Wisconsin kid, galloped 55 yards...Defensively, the Cardinals didn't have too much to worry their heads for the simple reason that the Packers couldn't work up much offense. The Packers were definitely "on the ball" in the first three quarters as they recovered five fumbles - two by end Don Wells and one each by Baby Ray, Aberson and Charley Brock. Unfortunately, those fumbles weren't made to operate quite freely most of the afternoon. The heavy Packer line just couldn't dig in enough to upset the light Card forwards - much less bang the center against Christman. Fritsch made the longest Packer run, 23 yards, in the last quarter, but Tony Canadeo, the Bay left half, got off chases of 14, 16 and 17 yards - to mention a few. The Packers gained 168 yards on the ground and the Cards got 252 by rushing. Incidentally, two weeks ago the Cards made only 16 yards by running. Between them, Fritsch and Canadeo gained 134 yards, with Tony out-yarding Ted, 69 to 65. Harder roared 90 yards in seven attempts for an average of 12.9...In the air, the Cards outflow Green Bay, 106 yards to 24. The Packers got themselves penalized 10 times for a total of 73 yards which definitely didn't hurt Chicago. Roy McKay, the Packer punting man, had to boot eight times and averaged 45 yards despite the "heavy" ball. He now has delivered 57 punts - one less than the record for most punts in one season held by Cleveland Parker Hall, who kicked 58 in 1939. The two field goals boosted Fritsch's FG total to eight for the season - two less than the record of 10 set by Jack Manders of the Bears in 1934. The six points boosted Ted's scoring total to 69, tops in the league. Here is a brief resume of what happened Sunday: That bad omen, loss of the toss, stared the Packers in the face as Fritsch kicked a mighty boot to the five where Harder received and wheeled to the Card 42. On the second play big Baby Ray recovered 20-year old Angsman's fumble on the Card 43. The Packers couldn't do anything but McKay got off a punt that Aberson downed on the Cardinal one-yard line, which led to the Packer score. Blackbourn soon punted from his own end zone and Rohrig ripped back from the 45 to the Card 26. Aberson and Schlinkman lugged to the 23 and then Fritsch exercised his toe to the tune of three points from the 32. The soaked crowd got a chance to shiver a moment later when young Harder ran 55 yards to the Packer five where Rohrig brought him down. The Packers then got down to business, held Harder to no gain in one try, and then Aberson recovered a fumble by Goldberg on the five...McKay and Blackbourn entered into a punting duel, exchanging three kicks with neither team being able to make a first down. Neither team could make such headway in the field was slippery with mud and moisture. On the last play of the first quarter the Packers made their first first down of the game as Schlinkman raced 12 yards off tackle to the Cardinal 41. Canadeo and Schlinkman moved the ball to the Cardinal 30 as the second frame opened, but then the attack stalled and the Packers lost the ball as a fourth down pass went awry on the Card 28. Goldberg belted off left tackle for 16 yards but the Packers got a life when Brock recovered a fumble on the Cardinal 49. But the Packers couldn't get anywhere and neither could the Cards on the juicy turf. The teams exchanged punts and then exchanged interceptions with Comp and Rankin gathered them in. The Rankin interception led to the tying points as the Card back raced to the Packer 42. The big blow, however, was an unnecessary roughness penalty that gave the Cards a first down on the Packer 15...Three times Christman tossed passes and three times the Bay backs leaped to the occasion to knock 'em down, the best being a kayo by Canadeo on the goal line just in front of Goldberg, the intended receiver. On fourth down, Cuff stepped back on the 23 and split the uprights, tying the score. Canadeo almost got off on the next kickoff racing from the goal line to the 40. Before the half ended, Canadeo ran 17 yards, Fritsch 17 and Kutner intercepted Comp's pass in the end zone. McKay pulled the Packers out of a terrific hole as the second half got underway. The Bays messed up the kickoff and finally recovered on their own six. McKay stepped into his own end zone and delivered a 62-yard punt that was downed on the Card 38. Another punt by McKay went for 54 yards and put the Cards back on their own 15. Blackbourn then punted out of bounds on the Card 49, setting the stage for another field goal by Fritsch...Canadeo, on third down, ripped 16 yards through center to the Card 28 and then the attack skidded in the mud. On fourth down, Fritsch stepped back on the 36 and got off a beautiful kick for three points and a 6-3 lead. Again the alert Packers moved into position as Wells recovered Goldberg's fumble on the Cardinal 34. Fritsch splashed off right end for 20 yards, with Craig and Canadeo blocking, but then Canadeo and Fritsch were stopped cold so Teddy stepped back to the 28 for a field goal. The heavy ball went low. Now it was the Cardinals' turn and they produced a touchdown on seven plays, covering 80 yards. It started with a pass interference penalty that gave Chicago a first down on its own 32. Harder ran nine and Christman threw to Kutner for 33 and to Harder for 14 as the third period ended...As the fourth quarter opened Craig threw Christman for a 14-yard loss but that was the last loss as the Packers were found being too rough, moving the ball to the two. On a quarterback sneak, Christman whipped over and Cuff kicked the extra point, leaving the count at 10-6. The Packers tried a bit of passing on the first play after the kickoff, with Abernson throwing, but Kutner intercepted on the Packer 33. Again the Cardinal passing game exerted itself as Christman tossed to Dewell to the 10. On third down, Goldberg went over standing up from the one, and Cuff converted to give the Cards a 17-6 margin. Green Bay, though it was impossible to really run hard, started running. Fritsch galloped 33 yards to the Card 46 and Canadeo and Fritsch advanced to the Card 36 in three tries. On fourth down, Comp daringly passed to Rohrig and the play went to the 21 and a first down. Comp and Fritsch then couldn't gain on the ground so Rohrig and Comp each tried a pass and each failed, being smeared for a total of 12 yards...The Cardinals took over on their own 39 and in one play they had another touchdown as Elmer Angsman ran off right tackle and cut to his left for 61 yards for the score. Cuff, of course, never misses and the Cards led 24-6. The Packers kept trying as Schlinkman raced 13 yards off right tackle and Abernson completed a pass to Luhn for nine yards but the end came as Kutner intercepted Abernson's long thrown on the Cardinal 33. The Chicagoans took it easy for three plays until the game ended.

Packer All-Timers Tip Bears in 30-7 Success

PACKERS ALL-TIMERS TIP BEARS IN 30-7 SUCCESS

NOV 25 (Green Bay) - Eleven men who have written some of the most brilliant chapters in the history of the Green Bay Packers, the Davids of the NFL, regained some of the old luster for a brief moment at City stadium Sunday afternoon. They were the immortals, of course, who were chosen by the fans in the Press-Gazette-sponsored poll to select an all-time team, representative of all the players who have worn Green Bay's colors since the NFL was organized back in 1921. Needless to say, the all-timers, some of them now graying around the temples and maybe a little thick around the middle, revived nostalgic memories of the happy days that produced six national championships and a division title for the "little town that leads them", not to mention the hundreds of individual thrills they gave the countless thousands who saw them in action...ENJOYING THEMSELVES: And they, Dilweg, Hinkle, Buck, Michalske, to name a few who have been absent from the gridiron where they carved their niches in the local hall of fame for some time, were obviously enjoying themselves despite the nasty weather because the fans' generous applause showed they were well-remembered. Fittingly, the "old guard" was introduced by another prominent figure of the early days. Although he was not on the player roster this gentlemen, Dr. W.W. Kelly, did more than his share to bring those six league titles to Green Bay annexed its first championship in 1929, the initial year of the first golden era that brought three straight crowns. His introductions, spiced with the imitable Irish wit he is known for, added just the right touch to the presentation ceremony between halves, giving it the lift so badly needed in a setting of leaden skies and sodden turf. He lost little time in setting the tempo for the fans, asking the all-timers to run out on the field, adding, "When I say run, I include Cub Buck." This had an immediate appeal because of the big fellow's bulk which hasn't diminished since he left this Wisconsin community to become a Rock Island, Ill., auto dealer...BROCK FIRST OUT: First to trot out to his position in the center of the field with the mythical eleven was Packer center Charley

Brock, the only member chosen still playing. Brock, famous for his ball stealing operations, was introduced as "the only thief convicted who has never been sent to jail." Next on the list was Charles (Buckets) Goldenberg, the University of Wisconsin product from Milwaukee, presented by Dr. Kelly as "that giant of finance". The tank-shaped guard had one of the longest active careers with the Packers on record, 13 seasons, from 1933-45. The other guard, powerful and rugged Mike Michalske, took his place on the other side of Brock after being introduced as "the only man who gave up a promising career on the gridiron to become a gentle professor of chemistry." Mike is currently head football coach at Iowa State college, Ames, Iowa...FIRST NAME PLAYER: A few moments later, Cub Buck "sprinted" out to his right tackle post. The husky fellow, the first

The Packers weren't the only people handicapped by the lousy weather at City stadium Sunday afternoon. The Press-Gazette Photographer had his troubles too, since the picture above is the only action shot he was able to salvage. It shows Packer Fullback Ted Fritsch bulling his way for 10 yards at the start of the third quarter. No. 51 is Packer Irv Comp. The photographer was able to take the posed Packer all-time and old-time pictures shown on the Picture Page.

"name" player to play with the Packers, was labeled "the automobile magnate from Rock Island who not only sells them but often has looked like one from the rear." The other tackle, Cal Hubbard, was unable to come at the last minute because of the serious illness of his brother, but received a fine ovation all the same. Lavvie Dilweg, ex-congressman from the Eighth district and still a trim athletic figure, next trotted out o man the right end slot. He wasn't forgotten either in the pre-appearance buildups by the able master of ceremonies who called him "our democratic statesman, a great lawyer and our own ex-congressman."...HERE'S MR. SINATRA: The fans got quite a boot out of the phrases selected to present Don Hutson, the slender Alabaman who holds a virtual monopoly on all league pass catching marks. He came out as "The Frank Sinatra of the gridiron, the man that makes them all swoon, Dancing Dan, the disappearing man." This even brought a big grin to the countenance of the usually poker-faced assistant Packer coach. There was more than a trace of amusement at the accolade he had saved for Johnny Blood, picked for the right half spot on the all-time eleven. Now a dapper executive of a Kenosha knitting mill, the Vagabond Halfback was introduced as "the answer to a maiden's prayer." At left half it was Verne Lewellen, the tremendous punter who, unfortunately, did all of his work before they started to keep league records to establish averages. The ex-city attorney took his position to the words, "Our own Mr. District Attorney and the greatest punter in the history of football."...DEGREE NOT NECESSARY: Next came Arnie Herber, the front half of the historic Herber to Hutson aerial duo which wreaked such havoc in the NFL from 1935 to 1941. He took to the field after Dr. Kelly tabbed him "the bottling merchant from De Pere, the man who proved that he didn't need a college degree to throw a football 75 yards." Last to be presented was the all-time fullback, Clarke Hinkle, the handsome line buster from little Bucknell college who could do just anything you can name with a football, describing him just as the fans saw him, "An oldtime, rootin'-tootin', two fisted battler, the greatest of great fullbacks." After posing for the photographers, this "dream team" ran through two plays, one of them a running play with Hinkle carrying after taking the "snap" from Brock a la T-formation. After somebody on the sidelines beseeched, "Throw one, Arnie", they lined up again and Herber tossed a short one, intended for Dilweg. And, for shame, even Hutson, who came over to assist after seeing the toss was out of Dilweg's reach, missed the oval. As the immortals took their seats on the benches along the sidelines, Emcee Kelly announced that "the game is over and the Packers defeat the Bears, 39-7." It was without a doubt the easiest victory the Packers ever scored over Halas' team. Right after that, Field Announcer Jim Coffeen, himself a former Packer, introduced members of the original 1919 team, the one that represented Green Bay when it played such cities as New London, Beloit, Stambaugh and Ironwood, Mich., and De Pere. The oldtimers included Herb Nichols, Sammy Powers, Martin and Carl Zoll, Al Petcka, Herman Martell, Nappy Martin, Wally Ladrow, Andy Muldoon, Fee Klaus, Art Schmael and Tubby Bero. Taps were sounded in honor of the only member of that team now deceased, the late Nate Abrams...Even Coffeen, usually accurate to a fault, must have mentally turned the clock back a few years in the spirit of the first Packer homecoming for when Ted Fritsch kicked his second field goal in the third period, Jim was heard to announce, "Hinkle kicks and it's good." Hinkle, sitting nearby, thanked him just the same...When the stadium lights were turned on as dusk settled with four minutes remaining in the third period, some wag sitting near Dale C. Hickok, father of the Press-Gazette's Don, was heard to say, "And turn off the water while you're up there."...Tommy O'Brien and Johnny Proski, the Packers' property men, were kept busy running clean towels out to the officials, who had to wipe off the ball after every play. They covered the oval with a towel, too, when either team huddled.

BEARS TAKE TITLE IN WESTERN HALF OF LOOP

NOV 25 (Green Bay) - The Chicago Bears had the Western division championship of the NFL salted away today after they smashed the Detroit Lions, 42-6, Sunday, while second place Green Bay bowed out of the title show by losing to the Chicago Cardinals, 24-6, in a game in which the Cards shoved across three touchdowns in the final period. The Boston Yanks extinguished the last flicker of hope of the defending champion Los Angeles Rams, 40-21, while the Eastern division race was still a touch and go affair. New York's Giants boosted their lead to a full game by edging the Pittsburgh Steelers, 7-0, while Washington replaced the Steelers in second place by knocking the Philadelphia Eagles out of the running, 27-10...ATTENDANCE RECORDS BROKEN: The turnstiles clicked merrily in the league and 152,988 fans watched the five games, bringing the season attendance for 46 contests to 1,506,540 and bettering the 1945 mark of 1,442,737 when 50 games were played. Nine games are still on the schedule. At Chicago, the Lions tallied first but wilted under a six-touchdown spree. Rookie Lloyd Reese scored twice for the Bears and Sid Luckman completed one touchdown toss, a 25-yard throw to George McAfee. Bill Osmanski and Dick Schweidler each bulled over for touchdowns and Hugh Gallarneau streaked 67 yards with a lateral after a recovered fumble for another Bear tally. At Boston, Sonny Karnofsky took the opening kickoff for a 97-yard touchdown run to help give the Yanks their first league victory of the season. Paul Governalli tossed touchdown passes to Johnny Grigas and Jim Gillette. Grigas sprinted 60 yards and Gillette raced 46 yards on other scoring dashes. The sixth Boston score came on a 45-yard pass play...TWO SCORING PASSES: Los Angeles scored on passes by Bob Waterfield and Jim Hardy and a run by Mike Holovak. New York's Giants marched 39 yards in the second period and sent Bill Paschal scoring from four yards out for the only touchdown against the Steelers. Washington spotted the Eagles three points on Augie Lio's 19 yard field goal, then pushed across four touchdowns. Jimmy Youel ran 37 yards for one and tossed a 36 yard pass to Eddie Saenz for another. Ki Aldrich snared a Philadelphia pass and scooted 31 yards to score and Dick Poillon went over for the fourth Washington score at the end of a 48-yard drive.

More Civic Interest Needed to Keep Packers Here, Hinkle Says

MORE CIVIC INTEREST NEEDED TO KEEP PACKERS HERE, HINKLE SAYS

NOV 26 (Green Bay) - "The Green Bay Packers are not going to be in Green Bay very long unless the city's civic organizations wake up and create more interest in the team," Clarke Hinkle, the Packers' ex-fullback great and now a De Pere businessman, warned in a talk at the second annual Elks' club East-West-Central football banquet Monday night. "I don't know why but there is absolutely no interest in the Packers any longer," Hinkle, who was only last week named to the team's mythical all-time eleven, declared. "It's really serious. The Green Bay townspeople are too complacent and if they don't do something about it the Packers won't be here in another two or three years," he told the 160 players, coaches, city and school officials present at the banquet. Hinkle, who has been a frequent speaker before Green Bay and De Pere civic clubs since returning from service with the Coast Guard last summer, expressed the same sentiments in a talk before the Lions club at the Beaumont hotel Monday noon. The former Bucknell star, who was one of the luminaries of the professional gridiron with Green Bay from 1932 through '41, emphasized, "Pro football is a big business nowadays, especially with the competition from the All-America conference which is paying high salaries. For that reason, we've definitely got to have a new spirit in Green Bay or we're not going to have the Packers."...PLAYING FOR CHECK: "When I was here, we played

Shown at the top, left to right, they are Al E. Reed, coach of East's Red Devils; F. L. (Frosty) Ferzarca, mentor of West High's Fox Valley conference champions; and N. J. for the Green Bay public because we knew everybody by their first names," he recalled. "We played for our friends or somebody we knew. But that isn't the case today. The team is quartered out at Rockwood lodge, isolated from the community and the players don't know anybody. These boys nowadays are just playing for the check. They don't know what the Green Bay spirit is." Asserting that "nobody cares whether they win or lose today", he reminisced, "when I played here Milt Gantenbein and I went down a dark alley when we lost because we didn't want to face the townspeople. But nobody cares now and I'm not blaming it only on the fans because it's the Packer corporation's fault just as much as it is theirs." "But," he concluded, "I would like to leave this thought with you: Green Bay is definitely going to lose the Packers unless something is done right away about creating a little interest in them."...BACKS FINANCIAL HELP: Earlier, the perennial rival of the Chicago Bears' Bronko Nagurski for all-league fullback honors told the players that "if an athlete has the ability there is no reason whatever why he shouldn't receive a scholarship. These boys should have a little financial help because they're helping to pack those stadiums with 60,000, 70,000 and 80,000 people," he declared. In taking his stand on the frequently debated subject of subsidization, now a common practice at many colleges and universities, Hinkle used his own experience as a case in point. A native of Toronto, Ohio, Hinkle said he had resigned himself to a job in a steel mill there after finishing high school and until he was offered a scholarship at Bucknell. Previously, he had offered his services to Ohio State college but Hink, who weighed 165 pounds, was told "You're only a small town boy. We can't use you." Not long after, he was given a scholarship to Bucknell by Carl Snavelly, who later coached at Cornell university, and subsequently won Little All-America honors at the Pennsylvania school where he attracted national attention...GOT COLLEGE EDUCATION: "If I hadn't received that scholarship, I'd probably still be working in a steel mill, or worse, maybe in a coal mine," he pointed out. "But I took advantage of my opportunity and got a college education in return for what athletic ability I had." Almost all the larger educational institutions "are paying money today for athletes and I don't think there is anything that can be said against it. Those boys are entitled to it because they're the ones who are packing those stadiums and they should get a little help," he emphasized.

REDSKINS NEXT FOR PACKERS

NOV 26 (Green Bay) - Not that Washington hasn't had enough trouble what with the strike and all, the Green Bay Packers will go there Sunday in an effort to stir up a little strike of their own. They'll be striking against George Preston Marshall's Redskins in a NFL fuss. Sunday's game is an absolute "must" for the Washington Redskins because they still have a chance to capture the Eastern division championship. The Skins are a game back of the New York Giants and the two clubs collide in the season's finale a week from next Sunday. For the Packers, second place is at stake in the Western division since the Chicago Bears sewed up the title last Sunday by crushing Detroit, 42-6, while the Packers were losing to the Chicago Cardinals, 24-6, and Los Angeles was getting surprised by Boston's Yanks, 40-21. Green Bay, with five wins and four losses, has one game left after Washington - with Los Angeles there Dec. 8...Packer coach Curly Lambeau announced that Ray Riddick, former Packer end, had now become a present Packer end. Riddick, end coach at Dartmouth university, signed a contract Monday afternoon and worked out with the team today. Riddick played here in 1940 and 1941 and joined the club for several games late in the 1942 season. In those days, he paired with Moose Mulleneaux and Dick Evans at right end. For the last two games, Riddick will spell Clyde Goodnight at left end. Goodnight has been bothered with bad ankles all season, the result being that his performances has been below his usual par. Riddick reported his weight today as 220, and added that "I'm ready to go." He mixes with the Dartmouth boys in practice...The Packers have played four games with Washington since 1937 and a total of 10 games with the Marshall franchise which was formerly located in Boston. In all, the Packers won six games, Washington two and Boston one. One game, with Boston, finished in a tie - 7 to 7 in 1933. In the 10 games, the Packers hold a 142-110 point advantage. Washington and Green Bay last played in Milwaukee in 1943, with the Redskins winning, 33-7. The Packers captured decision in 1939, 24-14, and in 1941, 22-17, after Washington won in 1937, 14-6...The squad will leave for Washington at 11 o'clock Friday morning and won't return to Green Bay until after the Los Angeles game. Immediately after the contest, the Packers will take off for Los Angeles.

NATIONAL GRID LEAGUE TO MEET

NOV 26 (New York) - Commissioner Bert Bell of the NFL today approved dates for three important major league meetings. On Dec. 16, Bell announced, the National league will hold its player draft and also its annual rules meeting in the eastern division city in which the world champion playoff is held. The annual business meeting was awarded to Chicago and will convene in the Blackstone hotel on Jan. 9, 10 and 11. Separating the rules meeting from the annual business session for the first time will enable the coaches and rules committee to spend more time conferring with Hugh L. Ray, the league's technical advisor, and to weigh the effects of the proposed changes before they are presented to the owners for adoption on Jan. 9.

Fritsch Keeps Scoring Lead as McKay Regains Punting Top

FRITSCH KEEPS SCORING LEAD AS MCKAY REGAINS PUNTING TOP

NOV 27 (Green Bay) - The Green Bay Packers haven't scored many points - 111 in nine games - but they have the NFL's leading marker of markers. He is Ted Fritsch, all-league fullback a year ago, who has produced 69 points - 14 more than Ward Cuff of the Chicago Cardinals who is in second place. Behind Cuff is Bill Dudley, Pittsburgh's great back, with 47 and Bob Waterfield, Los Angeles T quarterback, has 46. Fritsch has scored six touchdowns, five by running and one by pass receiving; nine extra points; and eight field goals. His field goal total gives him the league in that department. Incidentally, the field goal record for a single season is 10 and was set by Chicago Bear Jack Manders 12 years ago, Fritsch has two games to go yet - in Washington next Sunday and at Los Angeles the following Sabbath. The only other Packer leading any department is Roy Dale McKay, the fullback and left half, who regained first place in punting after relinquishing it last week to Waterfield. McKay has delivered 57 punts for an average of 43.3 yards. Waterfield has a higher average but booted only 34 times. McKay, like Fritsch, also has a chance to set a new record and undoubtedly will. The mark for the most punts in one season was set by Parker Hall of Cleveland in 1939 when he booted 58 times. McKay has averaged over six punts a game thus far. Dudley has punted 56 times but has only one game left. The statistics, released by the National league office today, reveal that Fritsch and left half Tony Canadeo have made over half of the Packers' total rushing yardage of 1,365. Canadeo is sixth in the league with 371 yards gained in 99 attempts and Fritsch is seventh with 362 yards in 100 attempts. Tony's average is 3.7 and Ted's 3.6. Walt Schlinkman, Packer fullback, stepped into 13th place among the ball carriers, with 251 yards gained in 70 attempts for a 3.6 average. Steve Van Buren of the Philadelphia Eagles and Sid Luckman of the Chicago Bears made emphatic gestures of a strong fight to retain the individual championships they won last year. Luckman moved to the fore in the fluctuating battle among the forward passers, and Van Buren gave a belated display of his ball carrying prowess by piling up 130 yards in the Eagles' losing battle with the Washington Redskins. The powerful Eagle speedster advanced from sixth to second place behind Bill Dudley, made a personal gain of 54 yards on the Pittsburgh ace and whittled Dudley's lead over the field to 110 yards. Time is short, however, for Van Buren to retain the title he won last year with 832 yards, but he has one marked advantage over Dudley. The latter has only one more contest, where the Eagles have two to go...The Packers will work out as usual Thanksgiving day, and Coach Curly Lambeau has a stiff session planned for the morning. A long defensive workout occupied the squad today. A defense was set up against the passes of Sammy Baugh who gave the Bears quite a headache in Chicago two weeks ago. This will be the second meeting this year between the two teams which played an exhibition in Denver last September, with the Redskins winning, 35-31.

PACKERS SIGN RIDDICK FOR LAST TWO GAMES

NOV 27 (Green Bay) - Coach E.L. (Curly) Lambeau of the Green Bay Packers announced Wednesday the signing of Ray Riddick, end coach at Dartmouth college, for the remaining two games on the 1946 schedule. Riddick played with the Packers during the 1940 and 1941 seasons and during the final few games of the 1942 campaign.

PACKERS OUT TO SNARE REDSKIN, RAM TILTS; LEAVE FOR EAST TODAY

NOV 29 (Green Bay) - Curly Lambeau had little to be thankful for Thursday. And, by his own admission, the coach of the Green Bay Packers reported, before leaving for the east today, that "Green Bay fans have little more to be thankful for as far as the Packers were concerned when they played at City stadium." Lambeau said he was sorry for the performance of the Packers in two of their three home games. "Their showing in the Bear and Cardinal game was disgraceful and I didn't like it any more than the fans," he declared, adding that "it was a shame that the boys could not put out like they did on the road." Lambeau said it was next to impossible to get his boys "up" for a game. "They had no consistent team spirit; for one game, seven or eight key players would be 'up,'" he pointed out. The Packers were really geared up for one game thus far and that was the Bear game in Chicago, he said. (The Packers lost, 10-7, when a Bear picked Ted Fritsch's fumble and ran for a touchdown). Though he emphasized it wasn't an excuse for a large part of the team's showing, Lambeau expressed the opinion that the Packers were badly handicapped through injuries. Clyde Goodnight, he said, was the "only offensive left end we had all year and he was bothered with an early season ankle sprain that still troubles him." Goodnight, who starred at Tulsa, was an expert pass receiver and took over the spot vacated by the immortal Don Hutson, who retired to assistant coach the Bays. The other injury involved Bruce Smith, the talented runner from Minnesota. "Removing Smith from our offense was like taking Luckman away from the Bears or Waterfield from the Rams. Because of a kidney injury we had to use Smith mostly on defense where he put in a great performance." The Packers also worked this season with entirely new quarterbacking, Lambeau related, adding that Joe Laws and Lou Brock were lost from this year's team...Though the Packers are out of the championship running, Lambeau stated that "we're going out to win those last two games." And the coach emphasized, "we're going to give the Redskins and Rams their stiffest fights of the season with an eye toward rebuilding for 1947 - IN GREEN BAY". This was the only direct reference the Packer mentor made to Clarke Hinkle's speech Monday night in which the former fullback declared that "Green Bay will lose the Packers unless more spirit is shown." Lambeau reported that a secret squad meeting was held at Rockwood lodge Tuesday and the players reviewed the Cardinal game which Green Bay lost 24-6. Lambeau revealed that "they realized a large number of offensive and defensive errors and are certainly willing to make every effort to correct them." In looking over the game, Lambeau admitted that his offense was "a mile under par for the National league course," but added that "our defense seemed to skid on the mud in that last quarter."

there Saturday morning and immediately take a brief workout. The Washington tilt, which will be broadcast over WTMJ starting at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon, will be the Packers' tenth game of the season. They hold second place in the Western division with five wins and four defeats. Washington holds second place in the Eastern division and still has an opportunity to capture the crown, being only a game behind the leading New York Giants. The Skins and Giants meet in New York Dec. 8 while the Packers are closing against the Rams in Los Angeles.

PACKERS AT WASHINGTON FOR SEMI-FINAL SUNDAY

NOV 30 (Washington) - The Green Bay Packers face the toughest line in the NFL here Sunday when they meet the Washington Redskins. The Redskins wall has allowed its nine opponents only 672 yards for a single game average of slightly over 74. By comparison, the Chicago Bear line has given its foes nearly 100 yards per game. The Packers will test this great Redskin machine, which still has a chance for the East division championship, at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon (Green Bay time). The game, to be witnessed by a sellout of 33,500 fans, will be broadcast over WTMJ. Barring a defensive lapse, the likes of which helped the Chicago Cardinals to a 24-6 last quarter victory over the Packers last Sunday, tomorrow's contest, the semifinal for both teams, shapes up a clash of powerful lines. The Bays' wall, until last Sunday, had allowed opponents an average of only 73 yards from scrimmage. On the points allowed, the Packers have an advantage, giving up 113 in nine games while the Redskins were permitting their opponents to score 140 in the same number of games. The big difference, of course, is in offense - the Skins making up 164 points against the Packers' 111. With Sammy Baugh in the T quarterback post, the Redskins are expected to throw plenty of passing at Green Bay. They've produced 1,259 yards in the air compared to Green Bay's 697. Statistically, the Packers have an edge in ground yardage, 1,265 to 1,321, and in first downs by rushing, 80 to 62. Unless Cliff Aberson, Irv Comp and Tony Canadeo show any accuracy with their pitching arms, the Packers are expected to stick to the ground. This means that fullback Ted Fritsch and left half Canadeo probably will do a lot of running...

Although they have missed their chance to repeat as champions of the NFL, the Los Angeles Rams may take a hand in deciding the 1946 winner when they play the New York Giants, Eastern division leaders, in New York Sunday. In the only other National league contest scheduled Sunday, the Chicago Bears, who already have sewed up the Western division championship for the eighth time, entertain their crosstown rivals, the Chicago Cardinals.

PACKERS FACE 'SKINS TODAY

NOV 30 (Washington) - Some super-par pigskin chasing should be on tap here tomorrow at Griffith stadium when the Green Bay Packers and Washington Redskins mingle in a NFL game. The kickoff is at 1 p.m. CST. The Redskins are right on the heels of the New York Giants in the Eastern division and Coach Turk Edwards' hospital list is fairly well cleared up. Reports here have it Sammy Baugh will see a lot of action. The Texas aerialist didn't see any action last Sunday in the brawl with the Philadelphia Eagles. Coach E.L. Lambeau and his Packers arrived here early today and went through a snappy workout at the stadium. According to Lambeau, his Green Bay team is set for the fracas.

PACKERS FACE REDSKINS IN WASHINGTON SUNDAY

DEC 1 (Milwaukee Journal) - Out of all title consideration in their own end of the league, the Green Bay Packers Sunday will see what they can do about helping untangle things in the eastern end when they meet the Washington Redskins at Washington in one of the key games of the week. The Packers who passed through here Friday and arrived in Washington Saturday morning, stepped into the middle of one of those ding-dong fights in the east between the New York Giants and Redskins for the right to meet the Chicago Bears in the championship game two week hence. The Bears clinched a place in the playoff a week ago. New York leads Washington by one game in the east, with two to go. A victory for the Packers Sunday, and the Giants will cinch at least a tie for the title regardless of what happens in New York's own game with the Los Angeles Rams at the Polo Grounds. A victory for the Redskins, however, and regardless of what the Giants do, the decision in the eastern end will go into the final game between New York and Washington a week hence.
