Packers Throttle High-Scoring Cardinals, 19-7; Take Second

GAME RECAP (GREEN BAY PRESS-GAZETTE)

(CHICAGO) - The Green Bay Packers established themselves as the defensive gems of the NFL by throttling the high-scoring Chicago Cardinals, 19-7, before 30,164 fans here Sunday afternoon. The Cardinals, who averaged 25 points in each of their previous seven starts, were held to a measly 16 yards rushing by the alert Packers who recovered five Cardinal fumbles and intercepted five passes. From start to finish, the big, powerful Packer forward wall completely bottled up any semblance of a running attack that Chicago had to offer. And the Packer backfield was tested to the limit defending against the slick Cardinal passing machine, most effective in the league. So tough was the Packer line that the Cardinals had a minus five yards rushing in the first half, and they tried only five ground plays in the last half, apparently deciding that the Packer wall was too tough to crack. The long-awaited Packer offense finally developed Sunday as it scored by every possible means - touchdown, field goal, extra point and safety - to put the Bays in second place in the Western division. It was a great tribute - the 19 points - to the stellar defensive line play that allowed only two legitimate touchdowns in the last four games. Fullback Ted Fritsch whipped home 11 points on a touchdown, two extra points and a 25-yard field goal. Irv Comp counted the other touchdown and end Nolan Luhn picked up the safety by nailing Paul Christman in the Card end zone with 10 seconds left...But this was a victory for the Packers' great defense, which allowed just one touchdown in each of the last five games. Sunday's encounter left the Packers with the league's top defensive mark against points - 89, or an average of slightly over 12. It was the Bays' 18th straight win over the Cards since 1937 and boosted the Bays into second place. The Cardinals' passing was nothing short of sensational with Christman completing 11 for 217 yards, but the Packers were there when it counted, with just one exception, which led to the Cardinals' only score early in the second half. The Bays' ground game was hot which shows that the Packer line was going all out defensively as well as offensively. Curly Lambeau's lads rolled up 14 first downs and 216 yards by rushing compared to the Cards' one first down, which came on a two-yard smash after a nine-yard pass in the fourth quarter. Green Bay completed only three passes but the first, on the opening play of the day, seemed to leave the Cards reeling. It went for 30 yards from Cliff Abernethy to Clyde Goodnight and a moment later Fritsch kicked his field goal. The Packers roared to two touchdowns in the second quarter, the first by Fritsch at the end of an 80-yard drive and the second by Comp after Rohrig recovered a fumble on the Cardinal 11. The Cards scored on a Christman-to-Seno aerial four plays after the second half started...The Bays might have scored even more points, though no complaints can be made on 19 points - two more than the Packers made in the last two games in winning from Detroit, 10-7, and losing to the Bears by the same score. The two clubs contributed 11 fumbles - six by the Cards, but the Bays recovered five compared to the Cards' three. Halfback Herman (The Germ) Rohrig probably got into the Card deck more than any Packer as he intercepted three passes and recovered one fumble. He raced one of his interceptions back 45 yards to the three yard line in the fourth quarter but his mates couldn't push it across. Backs Red Keuper and Bob Forte intercepted the other passes. Giant Paul Lipscomb recovered two and got an assist on one from guard Ed Neal who kicked the loose ball so Paul could pick it up. Tiny Croft and Baby Ray picked up the other fumbles. Packer Roy McKay continued to sparkle with his brilliant punting, averaging 48 4/5 yards, one a 62-yard boot that Clyde Goodnight downed on the Cardinal four to set up the safety...The details are juicy, what with all the fumbling and pass intercepting that took the place of punts in many cases. Here they are, briefly: The Packers won the toss which had been bad luck only this season - when they lost that heartbreaker to Los Angeles in Milwaukee. And it didn't take long to prove that a winning toss might bring good luck as the Bays drove to a 3-0 lead on 11 plays after Rohrig carried the opening kickoff from the five to the 27. The Packers stunned the Cards on the first play with a liner from Abernethy to Goodnight for 30 yards and a first down on the Cardinal 43. Young Abe then ran from three, threw to Don Wells for 10, and ran for 10 more to give the Bays a first down on the 20. On third down Schlinkman picked up eight but on fourth down the Packers were offside trying to run so Fritsch stepped back on the 25 to kick a field goal with only three minutes, 12 seconds gone. This began to look like the first Packer-Bear game (30-7) as Christman fumbled on the first Cardinal try and Lipscomb recovered on the Card 40. The Bays couldn't do much and McKay punted out of bounds...The thrills are just about to begin, fans, so hang on. On third down, Seno fumbled and Ray recovered on the Card 20, but don't get excited. Seno then intercepted Abernethy's pass on the 15 and ran to the 25. Christman passed 16 yards to Dewell but that was the extent of the injury and Blackburn punted out of bounds. From the 20, the Packers marched 80 yards to their first touchdown on 17 of the wildest plays we've seen. Fritsch led off with 11 yards in two tries and then Bruce Smith skipped 17 yards but the Packer backs were in motion. After Smith made another eight yards, Kutner intercepted an Abernethy pass but the Cards, bless 'em, were clipping on the play giving the Lambeau men a first down on the

Bruce Smith appeared off on a long gain against the Cardinals in Comiskey Park on November 11, 1946, but Dave Parker, the Cardinals' end, slipped in from the side to hold the Packer halfback to two yards. The Packers won the game, however, 19 to 7. Two weeks later the Cardinals took revenge at Green Bay in the rain. Remember?

After Smith made another eight yards, Kutner intercepted an Abernethy pass but the Cards, bless 'em, were clipping on the play giving the Lambeau men a first down on the Packer 40. As the first half ended Fritsch hit left tackle for seven. Bob Forte opened the second period with four yards and a first down on the Card 49. Smith and Forte got identical gains of 11 yards after which the Cards couldn't stand it any longer and got too rough - a 15-yard penalty and a Packer first down on the 13. Fritsch carried three times for the touchdown and then booted the extra point to make it 10-0...This is where fumbleitis set in. First, Croft recovered Christman's fumble on the Card 25 but two plays later, Seno recovered Rohrig's fumble. On the very next play Rohrig recovered a Card fumble on the 11. The Packers decided to end this foolishness and proceeded to score in four plays with Comp going over right tackle from the two-foot line for the touchdown. Fritsch's kick was good and the count was 17-0. The Packers then used a new method of getting the ball - the interception. Rohrig intercepted Christman's first pass but the Packers clipped after the interception and the ball was put back on the Card 15. A minute later Aberson fumbled and Rankin recovered on the 27, but again Christman tried a pass and Forte intercepted on the first play on the 12. The Bays marched up to the 50 in 12 plays when the half ended with a groan from the Cardinals. The second half opened with a terrific Cardinal drive that produced a touchdown in four plays on the right arm of Christman. He threw to Dewell for 27, to Goldberg for eight and then to Seno for 27 and the touchdown. Forte tried to nail Seno for a loss but missed and the Card back went over...And the noise started to bring results, for the moment, as the Bays were held and McKay was forced to punt. But Seno, who received the punt, fumbled and Lipscomb recovered on the Cardinal 16. The Packers got the fumble fever, too, as Luhn caught a pass from Comp, fumbled and Goldberg recovered on his own six. But there was a change in fortunes again as Keuper leaped out of nowhere to intercept Christman's heave on the 15 and run to the Card 11. The Packers tried three running plays and couldn't budge the Cardinal line so Comp tried to pas on fourth down that went incomplete. The Cards drove into Packer territory on passes but couldn't move past the 32 so Cuff tried a field goal from the 40 and missed as the ball was partially blocked. Canadeo made 24 yards in three tries as the Bays moved to the Card 46 as the last quarter opened but the Bays could go no further and McKay punted to Seno on the 14. Christman passed to Strasbaugh for 21 but that was the extent of the Cards' effort and Blackburn punted. The ball was too heavy and McKay punted again. On the first play, Rohrig intercepted Christman's throw on the 48 and ran to the three after wriggling through a ton of Cardinal flesh...It seemed like a sure touchdown as Fritsch drove over standing up on second down but the Packer backs were in motion. Fritsch then went out and Schlinkman came in. First Schlinkman slashed off left tackle for four to the two-yard line, then to the one and the Cards held on the last down. The Cardinals' dangerous passing attack clicked beautifully as they charged to the Packer 18 on Christman's arm. But Rohrig was there again, intercepting on the 17 and running to the 27. After picking up one first down, the Packers had to punt and McKay and Goodnight collaborated their efforts nicely as Roy booted to the six and Clyde downed the ball on the Card four. With seconds left, Luhn and Ray nailed Christman in the end zone for a safety. Luhn got credit for the two points, though both hit Christman almost at the same time. The game ended on the ensuing kickoff.

Conzelman Congrats Lambeau Who Congrats Kiesling; Everybody's Happy; Cards Out of Race

CONZELMAN CONGRATULATES LAMBEAU WHO CONGRATS KIESLING; EVERYBODY'S HAPPY; CARDS OUT OF RACE

NOV 11 (Green Bay) - "You were a better team than we thought you were." it was Jimmy Conzelman, tousle-haired chief strategist of Chicago's up and coming Cardinals, talking to Packer Coach E.L. (Curly) Lambeau on the mud of wind-swept Comiskey park here immediately following Sunday afternoon's activities in which the Bays dealt a death blow to the championship ambitions of his self-styled Harmony Kings. Congratulating the Bay mentor on his club's performance, Conzelman told Lambeau: "You simply outplayed us all the way. Of course, all those fumbles didn't help us any," he added defensively. "Outside of that, though, you outplayed us and on that basis, you deserved to win." The versatile gentleman who only this season returned to the NFL after three years as vice president of the St. Louis baseball Browns, admitted this with genuine sincerity. "That line of yours was tough all the way, especially in the first half. And, you were a little better mentally than we were," the Card pilot said, shrugging his shoulder, indicating that the important but oft-neglected item - spirit - which the Packers had in abundance - probably had more a little bearing on the result of this Sabbath's pigskin tete-a-tete. Asked if he "liked" the work of any Bay in particular, Conzelman came out with the same old story - the one involving the Packers' bruising Theodore Fritsch. "I thought he played a fine game," Charles Bidwill's No. 1 employee recalled with a trace of a wince. "He's a hard man to bring down." With that parting shot, he ambled off in quest of his wife and young son, closing the book on the latest clash between Conzelman and Lambeau-coached elevens which still shows the former with only one win in the long rivalry dating back to the late 20's when Jimmy was head man of the Providence Steamrollers. At the Knickerbocker hotel headquarters, Lambeau was feeling pretty proud of his boys. "They put out the best today that they have all season," he declared without any trace of reservation in the voice. "It was definitely a team game with everybody doing his part - and that's what counts." Informed that his eleven had rolled up 216 yards on the ground while the powerful forward wall limited the Cards to a meager 16 net rushing, Lambeau was highly gratified with this show of offensive potency and complimented Line Coach Walt Kiesling and the forwards for their yeoman work in muffling the Chicago ground weapons. The score could very easily have been more decisive, he felt, "because was also had some tough breaks on fumbles. The boys did such a good job that I'm sorry they couldn't have score more because they certainly deserved it." Then, turning his attention to the Western division race, the Bay boss sounded the keynote, "Remember, anything can happen the rest of the season."...Coach Lambeau and Assistant Coach Don Hutson didn't accompany the team on the trip home aboard the 6:20 Milwaukee Road, remaining in the Windy City where they were to be the principal speakers at today's meeting of the Chicago Grandstand Quarterback club...The Packer mentor and Bob Conrad, the Bays' advance agent, were honored over the weekend when they were presented with membership cards in the Bikini Atoll Chowder and Marching society, an honorary group which includes only 200 persons throughout the nation in addition to Army personnel actually involved in the now famous atomic bomb experiment in the Pacific last summer. Appropriately enough, the memberships were arranged by Lt. Col. Sid Clark, a former Green Bayite in the city for the game. He's, incidentally, a former partner in a golfing foursome which included Verne Lewellen, Lavvie Dilweg and Bernard (Boob) Darling, erstwhile Packers...Interested guests were Cecil Isbell, one-time front end of the well-remembered Isbell to Hutson aerial tandem and now head coach at Purdue university, and his 51-player Boilermaker squad. Also on hand were Coach Alvin (Bo) McMillin and his entire Indiana squad, including two Packer draftees, tackle Russ Diehl and guard Paul Brown. The future Bays are co-captain of this year's Hoosiers...The day's defensive piece de resistance was engineered by Merv Pregulman, the Michigan All-American. He very nearly bisected the Cards' Frank Seno in the third period, catching the speedster in midair on a punt return with a terrific impact that had the fans "whooshing" with sympathy for Seno...On hand again was the old war horse, Johnny Blood, who follows football, particularly the Packers, with the same zest that youngsters do fire trucks. He moved up and down the sidelines with the play for the full 60 minutes, acting as a morale builder as he shouted words of encouragement to his former teammates...One of the cinema's greatest football fans was also in the stands to watch the Packers fans. He was Joe E. Brown, the popular comedian with the canyon-sized oral opening, who is currently starring in the stage play, "Harvey", in Chicago...Sunday's game marked the first "miss" for Lucius Smith, father of the Packers' Bruce, of any Green Bay tilt within traveling range. The senior Smith, an attorney in Fairbault, Minn., missed only three games that his son has performed in since he started in the sport in high school. He is the one who advised Bruce to stick to football when the latter found that he couldn't play and do justice to a law course simultaneously. For this decision, both Minnesota's Bernie Bierman and Lambeau owe the elder Smith a vote of thanks for the rest - Boo's sensational work for the Gophers and his fine performances for the Packers - is history...Frank Seno, the Cards' starting right halfback, was honored by admirers from his hometown, Mendota, Ill., just before the opening kickoff. He was presented with the traditional traveling bag, a portable radio, and several loud ties, the latter by the co-captains of this year's Mendota High team. Seno's brother, Dr. Louis Seno of LaGrange, Ill., who once played tackle under Notre Dame's Marchmont Schwartz at Creighton university, was present at the ceremony. Frank played only one year of undergraduate ball, moving on to the Washington Redskins after a season at George Washington university...Add sports personalities present: King Levinsky, the old Chicago fish peddler, who once fought the ageless Joe Louis for the world's heavyweight title. The result: The Big Sleep for the Kingfisher at 2:04, round one...Train note: Ted Fritsch enjoying himself no little on the return trip. The burly fullback, one of the team's top comedians, was having quite a time collecting tickets with a porter's hat, brakeman's lantern, and curve-stemmed pipe he had pilfered along the line.

CURLY NAMES PACKERS' BEST

NOV 12 (Chicago) - Curly Lambeau, who has coached many of the best players in the business during his long tenure with the Green Bay Packers, picks two members of his present squad - quarterback Larry Craig and center Charley Brock - on his all-time Packer team. Lambeau named his all-time squad at a meeting of a Quarterback club Monday and his selections awakened fond memories for the Packers fans of bygone years. His choices: Ends, Don Hutson and Lavvie Dilweg; tackles, Cub Buck and Cal Hubbard; guards, Mike Michalske and Buckets Goldenberg; center, Charley Brock; quarterbacks, Larry Craig and Red Dunn; left halfbacks, Verne Lewellen and Cecil Isbell; right halfback, Johnny Blood; fullback, Clarke Hinkle. Lambeau said that under the old quick opening style, the passer played in the quarterback spot and for that reason he decided on Dunn. Under the Packers' present system, the quarterback (Craig) is strictly a blocker. Asst. Coach Hutson also had his say at the Quarterback club. "Ninety percent of catching passes is having a good passer," said Hutson. "I had the best in the business - Dixie Howell at Alabama and Arnie Herber and Cecil Isbell with the Packers."

Packers Battle Detroit Lions; Near 5000th Point

PACKERS BATTLE DETROIT LIONS; NEAR 5000TH POINT

NOV 12 (Green Bay) - The Green Bay Packers go to Detroit next Sunday for the following reasons: (1) To play a NFL contest with the local pro representatives, known as the Lions. (2) To defeat the Lions and thereby maintain their chances of finishing close enough to overtake the Chicago Bears just in case somebody can outpunch the Windy City fighters. (3) To score their 5000th point in 21 seasons of National league action - plus enough to whip the Lions. (4) To work their rugged defense even smoother than in the last five tilts. Let's discuss the various reasons for the Bays' 500-mile train trip one by one and you can draw your own conclusions...No. 1 is the contest itself. It will be each team's eighth game of the 1946 season and the second meeting of the two clubs this year. They tangled in Milwaukee Oct. 27 with the Packers winning, 10-7, after the pesky Lions almost tied (and won) in the last couple of seconds. The game will be the 31st between the two rivals since 1929 when the Detroiters were known as Portsmouth. The Bays hold two dozen wins against a half dozen losses...No. 2 is pure wishful thinking that could develop into a delightful circumstances if the Packers win the rest of their games and somebody knocks off the Bears twice. Such a turn of events would put Green Bay with a record of 8-3-0 and the Bears second with 7-3-1. But who will KO the Bears twice! The Bruins play Washington next Sunday, and then meet Detroit, the Cardinals and Detroit again. The Bays have a tougher task, meeting the Cardinals (in Green Bay Nov. 24), Washington and Los Angeles. May the best defense win, or may the best defense be the winning offense...No. 3 concerns this historical business on point scoring. The Packers need just seven points to reach the 5,000-mark in 25 1/2 seasons of action in the National league. They now have produced 4,993 markers in 305 games since 1921. Incidentally, in 305 games including 202 wins, 82 losses and 21 ties, the Packers averaged 16.3 points per game against their foes' 8.8. In other words, the Bays over all those year scored slightly over two touchdowns to their opponents' fraction over one. The Packers' overall percentage since 1921 has been .712...And now for No. 4 and the hottest thing in the National loop - the Packers' defense which has allowed only 89 points in seven games. The Bays' defense didn't start rolling until after they lost to the Bears, 30-7, and Los Angeles, 21-17, in the season's first two games. Defensitis really set in after the Philadelphia Eagles scored a touchdown right off the bat in the Oct. 13 game which the Packers won, 19-7. In the last five games, including the Eagle test, the Bays allowed just one touchdown in each tilt, and two of those were not legitimate - or unearned as they say in baseball. They resulted from picked up fumble deep in Packer territory. Here are those five touchdowns in the last five games: At Philadelphia Oct. 13 (19-7) - Van Buren six yards over right end after 89-yard march in first quarter. Pittsburgh here Oct. 20 (17-7) - Dudley 32 yards over right tackle after 64-yard march in second quarter. Detroit in Milwaukee Oct. 27 (10-7) - Ryan picked up Canadeo's fumble in backfield, ran 44 yards for a TD in second quarter. At Chicago Bears Nov. 3 (7-10) - Sprinkle picked up Fritsch's fumble in backfield, ran 30 yards for TD in third quarter. At Chicago Cards Nov. 10 (19-7) - Seno caught pass from Christman on 27-yard play for TD in third quarter.

FRITSCH, PACKERS' FULLBACK, LEADS LEAGUE SCORERS

NOV 13 (Green Bay) - Ted Fritsch, Green Bay Packer fullback, has replaced Ward Cuff, Chicago Cardinal veteran, as top scorer in the NFL. Fritsch scored 11 points against the Cards Sunday on a touchdown, a field goal and two conversions to boost his point total to 54. Cuff picked up only one point in the contest for a total of 47 and dropped to third, behind Pittsburgh's Bill Dudley, who has 49. Dudley, although stopped by the Detroit Lions, still ranks No. 1 among the ground gainer. with a total of 443 yards, according to official league statistics released Wednesday. Frank Filchock, New York noted more for his passing than his running, is runner up to Dudley with 324 yards. Hugh Gallarneau, the Chicago Bears' fleet back, who picked up 62 yards against Los Angeles to raise his mark to 281 yards, advanced from ninth to third place. Fritsch is fifth with 276. Passing honors are shared by Paul Christman of the Cards, with 81 completions for a high yardage of 1,304. Tommy Thompson of the Philadelphia Eagles has the best percentage mark, .632 on 50 completions, while Sid Luckman of the Bears has thrown the most touchdown passes, 11, one more than Christman and Bob Waterfield of Los Angeles. Waterfield is third in passing yardage with 1,018 to Luckman's 1,146, and ranks with his pass receiving end, Jim Benton, as one of the best batteries in the loop. Dudley has intercepted the most passes, eight, for 181 yards, and returned more punts (16) and for more yardage (261) than any of the others. The Pittsburgh star is also second to Frank Seno of the Cards in returning kickoffs. Waterfield has the best punting average, 46.3 on 23 kicks, but the league ranks the Packers' Roy McKay first on a 43 average because of his greater total of punts, 41.

McKay Boosts Punting Mark to 43 Yards, Paces National Loop

MCKAY BOOSTS PUNTING MARK TO 43 YARDS, PACES NATIONAL LOOP

NOV 13 (Green Bay) - Roy McKay, the Texas cowpuncher, likes to put people - especially people wearing football uniforms - in their proper places with his expert right toe. He's been doing it better than any other punter in the National league for 17 weeks over a period of two seasons. As a sophomore in 1945, the man who switches from left half to fullback punted 44 times for an average of 41.2 - tops in the circuit. Thus far in 1946, McKay delivered towering boots 41 times and his average is an even 43 yards. Actually, McKay could (or should) be averaging around 48 yards. The Texan junior, who feels more at home in a cowboy uniform, had one kick blocked in the Philadelphia game Oct. 13 and on numerous occasions was forced to punt inside his opponents' 50. With four games left, McKay probably will finish with 60 punts and, barring any blocked punts, his average should zoom up to 47 or 48 yards. McKay put in one of his best performances in the Cardinal game when he averaged nearly 49 yards with a ball that was "heavy" with mud. Besides, he kicked five times into the wind...National league statistics released today also revealed that Packer Ted Fritsch is leading the circuit in scoring with 54 points. He ran up 11 points against the Cardinals Sunday on a touchdown, field goal and two conversions. Fritsch replaced Ward Cuff, Cardinal halfback, who, through the courtesy of the Packer defense, had a chance to kick only one point after touchdown. Tied with teammate Tony Canadeo last week in eight place, Fritsch jumped into fifth place among the ground gainers behind Pittsburgh Dudley, New York Filchock, Chicago Bear Gallarneau and Boston Grigas. Fritsch had 276 yards gained in 75 attempts for a 3.6 average. Fritsch's field goal against the Cards Sunday boosted him ahead of Cuff in that department with five FG's in nine attempts. Ted's 46-yards against Philly is the longest of the season thus far. Another Green Bay name, Herman Rohrig, appeared today among the first five in the interception department. The Germ snagged three Cardinal passes to give him five for the season thus far. three less than Dudley who tops the loop. Rohrig returned his five interceptions 134 yards, and Dudley brought his eight back 181 yards...The Packers sharpened their offense today for Sunday's game in Detroit, and Coach Curly Lambeau came out with the warning that the Lions will be tougher than ever after beating Pittsburgh last Sunday, 17-7. The Packers were hard pressed to whip the Lions in Milwaukee, 10-7, on Oct. 27 and almost lost the game in the last few seconds. For one of the few times this season, the Packers will be opposing something else by the T-formation. Gus Dorais' Lions use a modified Notre Dame formation, which could cause the Bays plenty of trouble.

LAVVIE DILWEG'S SON PLAYS END TOO; NFL WINS ROUND 1 IN NY

NOV 13 (Green Bay) - Jack Dilweg is following in Papa Lavvie's footsteps. Young Jack is a regular left end on the unbeaten Episcopal High school team of Washington, D.C. Jack probably gets plenty of pro tips from his dad, a former of Packer end, and Episcopal Line Coach Lee McLaughlin, ex-Packer tackle (1941)...The NFL won the first round in the battle for New York's mighty attendance possibility. Last Sunday, the Giant-Eagle test drew 60,784, more than the combined totals for two A.A. games. 12,820 saw Buffalo play in Brooklyn and 30,765 thought they'd see something at the Yankees-Dons affair. And we'll venture to say that half the people who attended A.A. games did so because there just wasn't any more room at the Giant-Eagle tiff in the Polo Grounds...A week ago last Sunday, George W. Calhoun, veteran Packer publicity agent, saw his first kickoff in 20 years when the gates were checked (a sellout) earlier than usual before the Packer-Bear test. Last Sunday, Cal missed his first pro game in Chicago (barring illness) when he and Joe Laws missed the train. Something was mentioned about an alarm clock, "the blasted thing"...The old blood and thunder rivalry that existed between National league coaches is disappearing. When the Giants beat the Bears recently, George Halas congratulated Giant Pilot Steve Owen and last Sunday in Chicago Jim Conzelman extended a congratulating hand to Curly Lambeau. But there is one rivalry that will go on for keeps - that between Halas and Lambeau. Those two gents want to beat each other so badly that they've never in any mood for congrats after any Bear-Packer tussle...Cecil Isbell, the former Packer who isn't losing any weight coaching Purdue despite the fact that his teams are losing games, has been the butt of some bad talk at Purdue.

A Chicago Cardinal fumble was recovered by Herman Rohrig, Green Bay Packer half, who was tackled after running 10 yards to the enemy's 11 yard line in the second quarter at Chicago Sunday afternoon. The Packers won, 19 to 7.

But Indiana coach Bo McMillin came to his rescue the other day in Chicago. Said Bo: "Isbell has done a fine job this season in the face of all the bad luck a fellow can have."...Curly Lambeau boomed the all-time Packer ballot at a meeting of the Monday morning Quarterback club in Chicago, while Aide Don Hutson modestly told the boys that "90 percent of catching passes is having a good passer. I had the best in the business - Dixie Howell, Arnie Herber and Cecil Isbell."...Comiskey park has no specially constructed football press box in the stands over the 50-yard line like Wrigley field (Bears' home). Comiskey park, however, has five open seats high over the 50 and the lucky souls who sat there were the WTMJ radio people. For accuracy last Sunday, we had to take a back seat to Russ Winnie. In covering games, it isn't bad sitting high if the seat can be between the 35's or 40-yard lines, but off in the corner it's pure murder on the eyes. Briggs stadium in Detroit, where the Packers play next Sunday, is literally sky high, but the writers (for football) are smack on the 50 and looking straight down to a point a yard or so outside the sidelines. So far, we've been in only one pro grid stadium where a pair of binoculars (or even opera glasses) are not needed. That place is right here in Green Bay. It's called City stadium.

Detroit Lions Are Really Tough; They Held Dudley to 7 Yards

DETROIT LIONS ARE REALLY TOUGH; THEY HELD DUDLEY TO 7 YARDS

NOV 14 (Green Bay) - What a manner of men are these Detroit Lions! Are they some sort of super individuals who delight in knocking off the fellows among the NFL's upper crust? Take last Sunday, for instance. They whipped the defense-minded Pittsburgh Steelers, 17-7. What's more, these Lions held Bullet Bill Dudley to a lousy SEVEN yards. Dudley, remember, is the gent who gained 133 of his team's 156 yards by rushing at City stadium Oct. 20. Despite the Lions' record of holding Dudley to seven yards, the Steeler ace is still averaging around 80 yards a game. The Green Bay Packers, who don't have a reasonable facsimile of a Dudley in their lineup, must face these Lions in Detroit next Sunday. And the task looks particularly tough in view of the last meeting between the Packers and Lions in Milwaukee. The final score of that defensive test was 10-7 in favor of Green Bay, but the Detroiters were within winning distance with seconds left. The Packers, you know, are in position to stab their enemies - the Chicago Bears - in the back just in case anything happens to the Windy City Bruins, who, by George Halas' own admission, are "lucky this season". But in order to be around when and if the Bears fail, the Packers must win their remaining games. Remember, customers, that the Bears and Rams have a tie game in the standings which could play an important part in the Packers' chances - IF the Bears get clipped twice yet. Please pardon for getting off the track, but the Packers find themselves in a "must" position for each of their last four games. After Detroit, Green Bay plays those tough Chicago Cardinals at City stadium. The date is Nov. 24, a week from next Sunday...For some strange reason, the Detroit publicity office failed to send out news of the Lions this week. Until this week, the Lion management had been regular with its reports on training activities. However, the word has seeped through that another bullet, Mr. Bill (Injured) Westphal, will be ready for action at fullback for Detroit next Sunday. So will end Ed Frutig, the former Packer who caught a pass in Milwaukee. Another gent who may cause trouble, though he played only a minute or so in the first Lion-Packer game, is Bill De Correvont, the highly publicized prep and college boy. De Correvont caught a pass and ran 60 yards for one of the touchdowns against Pitt last Sunday...Coach Curly Lambeau sent his boys through a varied practice Wednesday and was impressed with the spirit of the lads particularly on offense. The drill started with a defensive session against Detroit's passes, and this was far from impressive. The usual punting drill was held and Texas Roy McKay got off some long ones, followed by Ted Fritsch, Bob Forte and Al Zupke. Incidentally, McKay, with Lambeau teaching, took a special drill in tackling. First he used live bait and then hit the dummy. Next came a brief kickoff session with Fritsch, McKay and Russ Letlow on the business end...The Packers will leave Friday evening on the Milwaukee Road Chippewa and arrive in Detroit Saturday morning about 7 o'clock. The squad will return to Green Bay Monday evening and Tuesday morning

The Associated Press photographer covered the Packers' offense beautifully Sunday but, darn it, he didn't capture any of that brilliant Bay defensive play. However, part of the offensive play is shown in the pictures above. In the top shot, Packer Back Cliff Aberson (center, with ball) is stopped for no gain in the opening period in Chicago on the Cards' 35-yard line. No. 47 is End Joe Parker of the Cards; No. 80 is Back Herman Rohrig of Packers. The lower view shows Packer Back Bruce Smith (with ball) starting through an opening big enough for a truck as the Packer line (right) functions smoothly in first quarter. But he went for only a short gain on sloppy field, with Cards' Ed Joe Parker (47) going in for the tackle. No. 8 is Back Bob Forte of Packers. (Turn page for another picture) launch intensive work for the Cardinal game here...Next weekend will be something of a Wisconsin period in Michigan, what with the Packers coming into Detroit Saturday and the University of Wisconsin battling the University of Michigan at nearby Ann Arbor Saturday afternoon. And there seems to be quite a Green Bay angle, too. Tom Bennett, ex-West grid star, is expected to start for the Badgers and freshman Gene Evans, also a West alumnus, is expected to see plenty of duty. On the other hand, some of the Packers will be going "home". Right half Bob Nussbaumer and guard Merv Pregulman closed their college careers with Michigan in 1945.

THE PASSERS WHO BLOOM IN LATE FALL, TRA-LA

NOV 14 (Detroit) - Davey Ryan, the silent Texan who learned his football at Hardin-Simmons University, may be in the fellow Gus Dorais has been looking for since Aug. 10. Little Davey, who is known to his teammates as Gabby because he has been known to participate in conversations for as long as 15 seconds, has blossomed out as a passer. His prowess as an aerial artist came to public attention last Sunday when he completed six of seven passes, two of them for touchdowns, to lead the Lions to a 17-7 victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers. An analysis of Ryan's passing record brought forth some startling facts. On the basis of percentages of completions, Ryan is far ahead of Bob Waterfield, Sammy Baugh and Sid Luckman. His record is also better than that compiled by Fireball Frankie Sinkwich during the latter's two-year stay with Detroit. So far this year, Ryan has completed 41 of 76 attempts for a percentage of .539. These passes have been good for 537 yards and five touchdowns. During Sinkwich's stay with the Lions he had an average of .397 in 1943 and .392 in 1944.

Sinkwich accounted for seven touchdowns in his first year and 12 in 1944. Averaging about six completions a game at the moment, Ryan has a good chance of finishing far ahead of Fireball Frankie's record. Ryan's form has taken a sudden change for the better. Last year, he had a meager .295 average for completions when he connected on only 13 of 44 passes for touchdowns and 331 yards. Should he continue at his present pace, Dave will not only beat Sinkwich in the matter of percentages, but also on total yardage and touchdown passes. The tough little Texan will be the Lions' hope next Sunday when the Detroit team seeks its second straight triumph in Briggs stadium with Green Bay as the opposition. Ryan will be pitted against Irv Comp, heralded last year as a fellow who would make Green Bay forget about Cecil Isbell and Arnie Herber. In his first year with the Packers, Comp lived up to expectations, primarily because Don Hutson was on the receiving end of his passes. In 1945 Irv had a record of .415 for his season's work, but without Hutson this season he has fallen to .287. In his first game against Detroit, Comp was able to hit only five receivers in 19 attempts. Dorais has had his pass defenders working overtime again this year to keep that record intact. Meanwhile, Ryan has been practicing those long passes, hoping for a repeat performance of the 78- and 88-yard scoring plays he maneuvered against the Steelers last Sunday. With Ryan as a passing threat, the Lions should begin to utilize the running ability of Jim Callahan, Camp Wilson, Bill de Correvont and Tippy Madarik. Sunday's test should provide an answer to Ryan's possibilities.

ABERSON - HE LOOKS LIKE ONE OF PACKERS' PRIZE ROOKIES IN YEARS

NOV 14 (Milwaukee Journal) - Most promising rookie Packer in several seasons and a back who became one of the best in the National league before he calls it quits is Cliff Aberson. Aberson, a Chicago boy who never attended college, looks better with every start - and one wonders why he wasn't played more in the troublesome left halfback slot early in the fall...The all-time Packer football team, now being voted on by fans, will be introduced between halves of the return Packer-Cardinal game at Green Bay November 24. Wherever they may be at this time, the men on the team will be brought to Green Bay by the Packers for ceremonies at the half. Balloting will end with mail stamped at midnight Saturday...Carl Mulleneaux, veteran end, has finally hung up his Green Bay shoes after a season of injuries. Rejoining the club this year after a 43 month hitch in the Navy, Mulleneaux in succession suffered a brain concussion, a broken nose and a spine injury. He will shortly leave for his home near San Francisco, where he is in the construction business with his brother, "Brute", also a former Packer. This was his sixth season...George Sauer, the old Packer halfback, is making a decided hit with his current edition of football Jayhawkers. Not only is he turning out a football team where not much of one stood before, but he is paying attention to the little things outside of coaching that the old grads like. Among those activities is a weekly informative letter, like Stuhldreher's to Wisconsin grads, which includes, besides comment, diagrams of KU's scoring plays. Incidentally, in his letter explaining KU's 14-13 victory over the Oklahoma

IT CAN HAPPEN AGAIN! PACKERS HAVEN'T SCORED ON KICKOFF SINCE 1942 IN DETROIT
 NOV 15 (Green Bay) - The Green Bay Packers left late this afternoon for Detroit - the scene of a perfect crime they haven't committed since 1942. It was four years ago in Briggs stadium that right halfback Andy Uram, now a retired businessman on Green Bay's South Broadway, received the second half kickoff on the three-yard line and ran the entire distance for six points. This was a perfect crime, indeed, as Minnesota Andy looked over the field, shot straight up the middle and then cut to his left for the distance. Not a hand touched him. The blockers did their job. On that day, Oct. 25, the Packers scored one touchdown in each quarter to win, 28-7, with Uram, Joe Carter, Chuck Sample and Lou Brock counting the TD's. That was one of the few Sundays that Don Hutson did not score a touchdown, but Assistant Coach Don did get into the scoring column by kicking two extra points. The Bays made trips to Detroit the next three years, winning 27-6 and 14-0 in 1943 and 1944, respectively. But the roof really caved in just a year ago when the Bays went into the Motor City for their last game and came out with a 14-3 setback, the field goal being delivered by Don. Whether history will repeat itself on Uram's kickoff return is immaterial, but the Packers are hoping the pendulum swings out a score something like that in 1942. On each of the last five Sundays, the Packer have allowed their foes one touchdown apiece plus the extra point. And at present,

Comparative records of the two teams to date follow:

Green Bay

Detroit ... 20	Los Angeles	41
Detroit ... 17	Pittsburgh	7

the Bays are the defensive kingpins of the loop, allowing only 89 points in seven starts. On the offense, however, the Bays are almost the worst, with only 96 points. Only Boston's Yanks have scored less - 73. Detroit has scored six more points than Green Bay - 102, which could be the difference in Sunday's game...After seven weeks of effort, the Packers find themselves leading the league in opponents' fumbles recovered and second in passes intercepted. They recovered twenty fumbles and intercepted 17 passes - in all 37 times they gained possession of the ball the hard way. Four of those fumble recoveries were steals, with Chief Thief Charley Brock getting two, Tiny Croft one and Don Wells, the freshman end, one. Brock's second steal set up the winning score in the Lion game in Milwaukee, while Croft's grab led to the Bays' only touchdown against the Chicago Bears. Wells' steal was probably the prettiest. Bob Waterfield, ace Los Angeles passer, waltzed back to toss and Wells grabbed the ball as Bob drew his hand back to pass. Herman Rohrig, with three interceptions against the Cardinals, leads the Bays in that department with five. Cliff Aberson, Bob Forte, Ken Keuper and Bob Nussbaumer each snagged two passes. Baby Ray is the only lineman to intercept a pass, the big tackle taking a screen pass from Detroit. On the other hand, the only backs to recover fumbles are Rohrig and Forte, both right halfbacks.

GREEN BAY PACKERS MEET LIONS SUNDAY

NOV 15 (Green Bay) - A week of work devoted almost entirely to offense behind them, the Green Bay Packers, 33 strong, prepared to leave here Friday afternoon for their next assignment in the National league race - a return game with the hapless Detroit Lions at Briggs stadium Sunday afternoon. There was reason for the emphasis on offense. Of all the things that have held the the Packers back this fall, the lack of a sound attack, especially a passing attack, has been the most pronounced. Green Bay has had to make defense pay off this year as never before, and while the club has been fairly successful in this, its crying need for a punch has claimed more and more of Curly Lambeau's time. This week, except for a little attention to defense, he spent all of his time on offense. Chief weakness in the attack has been the lack of a passing game to support the running game, which at times, after a bad start, has looked fairly good. The Packers at the moment stand absolutely last in the league in passing efficiency, which is something that has had Lambeau tearing his hair. The improvement of Cliff Aberson, however, may finally give Lambeau the ingredient which the overall attack has lacked. Aberson, working at left halfback, has done some of the best passing of the season this week, and he will get the starting assignment Sunday. If he clicks, the whole offense may explode. Sunday's game will be a return engagement. The Packers beat the Lions in Milwaukee three weeks ago, 10-7, on Ted Fritsch's field goal. Since then, the Packers have bowed to the Bears and have beaten the Cardinals. The Lions last Sunday won their first game of the season, an upset victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers. Sunday's game is expected to draw upward of 25,000 fans. The Packers a week later will make their last home start of the season, meeting the Chicago Cardinals in a return game here.

CARDINALS' BIG MOMENT

Altho defeat was to be their portion, the Chicago Cardinals had their moment of glory at the start of the second half of their National Football league battle with Green Bay yesterday in Comiskey park. And here it is—Frank Seno eludes Cliff Aberson's flying tackle and sprints toward the Packers' goal line after catching a pass from Paul Christman. The play netted 27 yards. (TRIBUNE PHOTO)

Packers Are Favored To Nip Detroit Team

But Feeling Strong Lions May Be Tough For Bays in Motor City Contest Sunday

PACKERS ARE FAVORED TO NIP DETROIT TEAM

NOV 16 (Green Bay) - Out in this place where they are supposedly making automobiles, the Green Bay Packers are favored to ride over the local Detroit Lions by two touchdowns Sunday afternoon. And that's a bad omen because the last time Green Bay was favored to whip anybody, the forces from Wisconsin had a wicked time winning. That one time was Oct. 27 when the Packers met these same Lions in Milwaukee. The downstate papers shouted that the Packers "should win by about three touchdowns." It seemed that Detroit hadn't won in five starts at the time. Then came the game. The two teams battled back and forth in a tremendous defensive struggle that Lions Coach Gus Dorais thought should have ended in a tie. Soon Ted Fritsch kicked a field goal and then Dave Ryan, hot Lion back, scooped up Tony Canadeo's fumble and ran for a touchdown to put Detroit ahead, 7-3. It finally took one of Charley Brock's patented steals and four goal line plays to shove the ball over for a 10-7 Packer win. At that, Detroit almost scored in the last few seconds. In brief, the Packers have a tough job on their hands here Sunday, starting at 2 o'clock. Both teams will be searching for their second straight wins, the Packers having whipped Chicago's Cardinals, 19-7, last Sunday and the Lions beating Pittsburgh, 17-7. Incidentally, the Lions' win was by the same score the Packers beat Pittsburgh in Green Bay Oct. 20. There are two important Packer factors for tomorrow's event: (1) Progress of the Curly Lambeau offense; and (2) a toughening of the same man's defense. Young Cliff Aberson may get a supreme test Sunday in view of his great performance against the Cardinals last week. Others due for plenty of action are rookies Bob Forte at right half and Don Wells, right end. Wells rushed the shoes off Cardinal Paul Christman, so far the league's leading passer, last Sunday. Then there is left half Tony Canadeo, who carried the ball just once in the Bear game two weeks ago and about 10 times last Sunday. Canadeo is itching for work and may get it Sunday, in which case Aberson may take it easy. Another left half who is due for much more employment is Bruce Smith, who got off some good runs against the Cards. The Packer line which has been the secret of the Packers' defensive success is in first class shape, especially guard Ed Neal, who charged the Cardinal center so hard last Sunday that he had much to do with T-Quarterback Christman fumbling five times. Detroit won't have a T-quarterback since it uses the Notre Dame formation, but Neal's almost super strength will leave him many opportunities in the Lion backfield. In the last Lion game, the Packers couldn't gain an inch around the ends. An effort to correct this discrepancy was made this week in practice with a long blocking session for the backs and the offensive guards who pull out on end sweeps. Like last Sunday, the Packers expect to get heavy doses of Lion passes. Ryan, who caused the Bays trouble in Milwaukee, is pitching at a .539 rate with 537 yards gained in 41 completions and five TD's. Teammate Jim Callahan has a .503 mark. Johnny Greene, Jack Matheson and Bill De Correvont are the chief receivers. De Correvont ran a pass 60 yards for a touchdown against Pittsburgh last Sunday. Greene, by the way, outraced Bill Dudley in going 88 yards for a touchdown after catching a short pass from Ryan...Sunday's game is the 25th between the two clubs since 1934 and a crowd of 25,000 is expected. For several years previous to that time, the Detroit franchise was held by Portsmouth. In 31 games the Packers played Portsmouth and Detroit, Green Bay captured 24 and Detroit six, one game ended in a tie. Detroit captured only two wins at home in the last 13 years - in 1935, 20-10, and 1945, 14-3.

REMEMBER ART SCHMAEL WHO SCORED FIRST PACKER TD IN 1921? ALL-TIME POLL BRINGS MANY MEMORIES; RESPONSE TERRIFIC

NOV 16 (Green Bay) - We've been away from dear old Green Bay for about 22 hours now and already we're lonesome (please note Mrs. D). We left behind a stack of letter nearly a foot high - each containing a ballot for the all-time Green Bay team plus complimentary notes regarding the poll in general. We'd like to spend this weekend answering some of those letters, but for the moment we'll just say "thanks a million". Our next duty is to report the Packer-Lion clash here Sunday. The response to the poll has been amazing. We say this because it received just about half the promotion it would have under normal newsprint conditions. We've received selections from 10 different states, including Texas, New Mexico, New York and the District of Columbia. The final count will be announced Tuesday night, and, don't forget, deadline is midnight tonight. One of the interesting reactions from the poll is this: It is giving hundreds of Packer fans an opportunity to recall the many onetime Green Bay stars - guys who haven't been mentioned in print for 10 or 15 years. As an example, we received a vote Friday for Art Schmael, a fullback who scored the first Packer touchdown in league competition back on Oct. 23, 1921. It was against Minneapolis at old Hagermeister park and the Packers were losing, 6-0, with five minutes to go. Schmael, a member of the Coast Guard here, plunged over from the four-yard line after Curly Lambeau's passes put the ball in position. And then Lambeau kicked the extra point to give the Bays a 7-6 win. Schmael won't make the all-time team but the very fact that his name was mentioned gives you oldtimers some wonderful memories of other days. That's a priceless part of the poll, friends. Here's the younger element. Pvt. Herman Reckelberg of Fort Bliss, Tex., a Green Bay boy, sent in his ballot after conferring by mail with his dad "so that he could give some of the oldtimers a break." Reckelberg, at 20, hasn't seen as many Packer games as his dad. And just for a sidelight, we got an all-Irish Packer team from Bob O'Leary of Baum's. It has Hayes and O'Donnell at ends; Coughlin and Collins at tackles; Muldoon and Brennan at guards; Powers at center; Dunn at quarterback; Crowley at left half; Hearden at right half; and O'Boyle at fullback. Harry Flint, the Western Union man, writes "it's nearly a crime trying to pick an all-time team as the Packers have had so many wonderful players." But Harry picked his team after due consideration. As expected the competition for some of the positions is definitely not nip and tuck. This is another way of saying that the Packer have had some truly great players. For instance, there were Don Hutson, the incomparable offensive end; and Clarke Hinkle, the fullback who could do everything; and Mike Michalske, the ace of guards; and Cal Hubbard, the bruising tackle - to mention a few. Roughly 3,000 boys have exerted themselves under the banner of the Green Bay Packers and if space would permit we'd like to give 'em all a vote. They've brought a lot of fame to this city and advertised it far and wide. Next week will be Packer Homecoming Week in Green Bay, with the climax coming on Sunday, Nov. 24 when the all-time Packer team is introduced between halves of the Cardinal-Packer game at City stadium. There will be scored of oldtimers here, and the day will be a particularly great one for you oldtimers. The Packer tabulation is being published for the last time tonight until Tuesday night when the final standings will run. See you "all-timers" Tuesday. And don't forget there is still time to vote. If you haven't voted yet, take pencil and paper, write down your team, sign it and mail it to the Sports Editor, Press-Gazette, Green Bay, Wis., so that it is post marked before midnight tonight. See you Tuesday.

ROUND N' ABOUT

NOV 16 (Detroit) - The battle of the box office between the NFL and the All-America Conference is a phony war according to some observers, When the professional football season started, the main objective of the All-America Conference was to impress on the sports public the ultra-popularity of the new pro circuit. The public is supposed to string along with a winner. Came the first AA games and surprising numbers turned out for the contests, surprising to the point of making some National league officials wonder. Crowds of 50,000 and 60,000 were battling their way into the stadium to see Jimmy Crowley's teams - according to the management of the various teams. Those boxcar figures were supposed to be paid attendance. One of the AA clubs, however, sells tickets to school children under 6 for a mere five cents. The NFL claims these jitney seats are included in the "paid attendance"...Another club is reported to have announced a crowd of 18,000 had paid its way into the ball park - but failed to mention that more than 8,000 were admitted on benefit tickets which sold for 20 cents. Last week, when the National League New York Giants and Philadelphia Eagles drew more than 60,000 to the Polo Grounds, the All-America's New York Yankees claimed a crowd of 30,000 in Yankee Stadium. Some indication of the accuracy of the latter figures can be gained by press association reports which said: "The game was played before an announced crowd of 30,000." Veteran Stadium ticket men said that 20,000 would be more correct. What the All-America Conference doesn't publicize is the fact that Miami has drawn fewer than 7,000 fans to each of its first two home games. Buffalo has played before crowds of slightly more than 2,000 paying customers. According to the figures announced for 39 All-America games, the average crowd has been 26,400. In 36 NFL games, the teams have played before an average of 34,700. We do know that National league ticket managers have been warned by the league office to announced actual turnstile counts...If the new circuit is going great guns - as the attendance figures would lead you to believe - then the cries for help from several members certainly are out of order. Dan Topping, who deserted the NFL for the new loop, recently pleased with New York sportscasters for support of his Yankee team. This happened after he ordered ticket prices slashed because the customers were not coming after them in the expected droves. In Los Angeles, Dud De Groot, coach of the Dons, who jumped to the AA from the Washington Redskins, half complained and half-pleaded for better support from the newspapermen. He based his plea upon the fact that the Dons are a homegrown product, while the Rams, their National league rivals who are getting the play, are a transplanted aggregation from Cleveland. Owner Fred L. Mandel, Jr., of the Detroit Lions said that it would be interesting to compare the average ticket price in the two leagues and then compare the season attendance figures. That's the only way the battle of the box office can be judged. We doubt if these figures will ever be released.

LIONS SEEK 2ND IN A ROW

NOV 17 (Detroit) - Two in a row! That's the mark the Detroit Lions will seek to achieve Sunday afternoon when the Packers from Green Bay pay their yearly visit to Detroit. Still basking in the glory of dumping the Pittsburgh Steelers from the top rung of the Eastern division last week, the Lions will be slight favorites to beat the Packers, a trick they should have performed in the team's first meeting in Milwaukee. Green Bay, however, still maintains a mathematical chance of catching the Chicago Bears for the Western Division title. To retain that chance the Packers must win Sunday. Last week the Packers dumped the Chicago Cardinals, 19 to 7. In the first meeting of the clubs, Green Bay literally stole the contest when Charley Brock pilfered the ball from Camp Wilson and set the stage for the game winning touchdown. This incident occurred after the Lions led, 7 to

He'll get special attention from Lions Sunday

3, at the intermission. As in last Sunday's encounter with the Steelers, the Lion line will hold the key to the situation. If the forwards can hold Ted Fritsch and Bruce Smith to negligible yardage on their running game, the Lions should win...Elsewhere in the league the Chicago Bears will entertain the Washington Redskins at Wrigley Field, with the Bears seeking to add to their Western Division lead. A victory for the Bears would all but sink the hopes of the Packers and the Los Angeles Rams. The Rams will be playing host to the Cardinals in the Coliseum on the coast. In the East the New York Giants are expected to have little trouble with the Boston Yanks in a Polo Grounds engagement. The Yanks have lost their first seven games and have little hope of upsetting the Eastern Division leaders. In the other games, Pittsburgh will meet the Philadelphia Eagles in Pittsburgh before a sellout crowd. Both these teams will be trying to bounce back from bitter defeats suffered last week. The Eagles were trounced by the Giants, 45 to 17, while Pittsburgh fell to Detroit, 17-7...As usual, the Lions will be counting on their aerial offensive to bring home enough points to beat the Packers. Dave Ryan, the league's sixth-ranking passer, will be on the throwing end, along with Jim Callahan. In the running department, Wilson, the goat of the first game between these two teams, will carry the brunt of the burden.

PACKERS, LIONS CLASH AGAIN SUNDAY

NOV 17 (Detroit) - When Curly Lambeau called his best Green Bay team of the season ready here Saturday night for its return game with the Detroit Lions at Briggs Stadium Sunday afternoon. Green Bay won the first game, at Milwaukee three weeks ago, 10-7. Lambeau unhesitatingly labeled it his best team because of the slow but steady development in the offense and the equally slow but steady improvement in the condition of his many cripples. This last was especially encouraging as he regarded Sunday's assignment. Even Bruce Smith, who has been hampered all season long with injuries and who did not play at all in several games, has recovered sufficiently to play a little more than he has in recent games. The improvement in the offense stems largely from improvement in passing in the last week, with Cliff Abernethy at left halfback. Lack of any real passing and only ordinary receiving have been the team's chief weaknesses this fall. Together, they have been the source of most of Green Bay's troubles. In no game have the Packers scored more than two touchdowns, although in several they added a field goal and a safety. The passing will be especially necessary Sunday, too, for the Lions, despite their lowly standing in the race, have not been pushed around on the ground by any team. They have been regularly trounced, except for their surprising victory over the Steelers last Sunday, but they have taken their lickings in the air, not on the ground. Furthermore, only once this year have the Lions been held to as little as a single touchdown in a game. The Packers achieved this defensive record in the game in Milwaukee. In all other games the home forces have scored at least two touchdowns. The game Sunday, therefore, could be something of a headache to Lambeau if his team does not live up to his appraisal as his best of the fall, and especially if it does not pass with more effectiveness than it has so far. Abernethy will start at left half, with the rest of the lineup the same which surprised the Cardinals last week. In passing and running both, Abernethy in the last week has given his best performance of the fall. The Lions, with a negligible running game, will depend once more on the passing arm of Dave Ryan. Sunday's game in Detroit will be one of a full schedule in the National league. In others, the Chicago Cardinals will meet the Los Angeles Rams in Los Angeles, the Chicago Bears will play host to the Washington Redskins at Wrigley field, the Pittsburgh Steelers will meet the Philadelphia Eagles at Philadelphia, and the Boston Yankees will play the New York Giants at New York.

BROWNS, YANKEES EYE CHANCE TO CLINCH TITLES

NOV 16 (New York) - The Cleveland Browns and New York Yankees can clinch a tie for the title in the two divisions of the All-America Football conference Sunday. Only three games are scheduled in the younger of the two major professional circuits Sunday afternoon but all of them will have a direct bearing on the title race. The Chicago Rockets will be at Cleveland with the San Francisco Forty-Niners at New York and Los Angeles invading the home of the Brooklyn Dodgers. A triumph for the Yankees would give them a record of eight victories, two losses and a tie, with three more games to play. The Dodgers, runners up in the eastern division, must defeat the Dons to retain a mathematical chance to share in the title. Cleveland can boost its records to nine wins and two losses by beating Chicago but it would take a San Francisco defeat to enable the Browns to sew up a share of the western crown. In the National league, a full slate of five games is on tap but it may be another week or two before the division winners are determined. The most important of the games in the senior circuit will be the one in Chicago between the Bears, who lead the western division by a game and a half, and the Washington Redskins, second place team in the eastern standings. The New York Giants will play the last place Boston Yanks. The Philadelphia Eagles and Pittsburgh Steelers, both in the running for the eastern title, will meet at Pittsburgh while the Green Bay Packers, runners up in the western division, will be at Detroit and the Chicago Cardinals will be at Los Angeles.
